CHINESE SITUATION ALARMING

CONCERTED ACTION PLANNED; BRITISH WILL SEND CRUISER

Communists Center
Around Cities In New
Advance

LONDON, Aug. 9. — The British cruiser Berwick was rushing toward Hankow at full speed today, evening newspapers here reported. It proceeded yesterday from Weihaiwei.

LONDON, Aug. 9. — The British, American, French, and Japanese governments are actively discussing steps for concerted naval action for protection of foreign lives and property on the Yangtze river in case the Nanking government becomes powerless, the Daily Telegraph revealed today.

Gunboats of the several powers already are on hand in the disturbed Chinese zone watching Communist developments.

Concerned over the gravity of the crisis, it is probable that the various governments will seek to reach a plan for common military and naval action should extreme measures be deemed necessary on the Yangtze.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9.—Communist activity in the Yangtze Valley today centered around the cities of Hankow, Nanchang and Hangzhou, all of them swarming with refugee Chinese and foreign residents who were driven in by the sweeping advance of Red forces.

The warships of three foreign powers were prepared to deal with emergencies as the capture of Hankow appeared inevitable with approach of overwhelming Communist forces, who already have sacked the city of Changsha.

Hankow defense garrisons were considerably weakened by mutiny of several groups, who were speedily disbanded by loyal troops. A Red plot to gain control of the Hankow light and power works and plunge the vicinity into darkness also was frustrated by alert authorities, who arrested the plotters.

The American National City Bank was served a Communist notice that unless $62,500 was paid the Red armies would invade the city.

The Nanking government, claiming military successes against the Communists in various parts of the Yangtze Valley and a stronger hold upon the threatened Hankow region, charged in an official statement that the northern rebels and the Reds are in collusion negotiating for a crushing joint drive against the Nationalist forces.

SUITOR KILLS GIRL AND SHOTS SELF; PACT IS SUSPECTED

Slayer Expected To Die;
Has Wife And Child
Living

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Aug. 9.—The killing yesterday of Miss Margaret Limerick, 20, attractive waitress in a boarding house, by her married suitor, Earl Turner, 42, of Philadelphia, who turned the pistol upon himself, might have been prompted by a suicide pact, police admitted today.

Turner, in a dying condition at a local hospital with two bullet wounds in the head but conscious, told police both he and Miss Limerick "were tired of living."

The girl, whose aunt conducts the boarding house where she worked and Turner lived, knew Turner was believed to have a wife and child living in Philadelphia, and refused to marry him.

She was found shot to death in Turner's automobile parked near the city. He was lying in the road nearby. Several letters Miss Limerick wrote to Turner were found in the machine. They referred to the fact that he is married and suggested he seek a divorce.

Turner did not know today Miss Limerick is dead and he asked that nurses ask her to "forgive him," he remarks continually that he is sorry he did not die.

ISLAND SWALLOWED BY SEA OFF MALAY

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The island of Amak Krakatau, Malay Archipelago, was swallowed by the sea following violent volcanic activity, according to reports today in evening newspapers.

The vanished land was uninhabited, a speck among many on the thickly-dotted ocean map of the region.

WIFE BOMBER ASKS FOR SPEEDY EXECUTION

DETROIT GRAND JURY WILL PROBE CARNIVAL OF UNDERWORLD CRIME

Judges Authorize Investigating
Body Of Twenty-Three

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—Crime in Detroit and the carnival of underworld slayings which was climaxed by the murder of Gerald E. Buckley, 37, crime-crushing radio announcer, will be put under the microscope of a twenty-three man grand jury, it was officially decided today, when five judges of the circuit court signed an order setting up such an investigating body.

A panel of 150 names was immediately drawn and the task of selecting the jury will begin Monday.

Prosecutor James E. Chenot issued a statement saying that he did not know what Police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox had meant when he said he knew the six slayers of Buckley, who was "put on the spot" in the lobby of the LaSalle Hotel last election night.

"As far as I am concerned," Chenot said, "the slayers are not known until they are captured and convicted."

Chenot criticized the police department because five of the alleged slayers were still at large. His statement indicated a split among authorities.

Angelo Liviechi, alleged St. Louis racketeer, is the only one of the six who is in custody. He is being held without bond on a murder charge.

Ten gangland slayings occurred in a two-week period prior to the Buckley slaying. At least a score of others have been recorded this year.

DEATH AGAIN HOLDS UP STEEL MERGER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 9.—Postponement of the trial of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger suit, was announced today following the death yesterday, of Myron C. Wick, Jr., co-plaintiff in the effort to halt the merger.

Wick died of pneumonia in Youngstown Hospital after a week's illness.

Announcement of the postponement of the trial until after the funeral of Wick, was made by Judge David G. Jenkins, who is hearing the case in Mahoning County common pleas court, after consulting with the lawyers of both sides. The time for the funeral service has not been set.

Wick is the second central figure in the famous merger suit to die since the trial began almost seven weeks ago. The trial was halted six weeks ago yesterday by the suicide of Leroy A. Manchester, chief counsel for Sheet and Tube.

THAT'S ALL RIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—Despite a fall from a three-story window, little 18-month-old Jessie Bema Bean is very much alive, both physically and mentally today.

Losing her balance while playing in a window on the third story of her home here, little Jessie tumbled to a concrete sidewalk below. And all she seems to have suffered, physicians say, was a bump on the head and a cut tongue.

MILITIA SENT TO KEEP PEACE AFTER RIOTS

Two Companies Patrol
Negro Section In
Marion, Ind.

MARION, Ind., Aug. 9.—Two companies of the Indiana National Guard detained here shortly after dawn today and were immediately placed on duty patrolling the Negro quarters of the city.

The troops were rushed to Marion to prevent a possible recurrence of the mob violence which on Thursday night resulted in the lynching of two Negroes accused of attacking a white girl and murdering her escort.

The arrival of the guardsmen gave the town a warlike aspect as the khaki-clad columns marched from their special train to quarters assigned to them in the civic hall. Details were immediately posted in the more dangerous areas.

The soldiers, members of Company I, of South Bend, commanded by Captain Robert F. Durbin, and Company K, of Fort Wayne, under the command of Captain John F. Houck, had been at Camp Knox, Ky., for their summer encampment. They were taken in trucks to Louisville, and there boarded a train for Marion.

PLANE KILLS ONE

LONDON, Aug. 9.—One passenger was killed and five persons were injured today when an Italian seaplane flying between Trieste and Zara crashed into the sea.

The cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

Murder charges have been preferred against A. D. Payne, Amarillo, Tex., attorney, shown lower left, following a confession to police that he placed three sticks of dynamite in his automobile, the exploding explosion being credited with the killing of his wife, above, and the maiming of his son, nine. Payne, held in jail at Stinnett, Tex., because of fear of mob violence, is said by police to have evolved the plot because of his love for Mrs. Verona Thompson, lower center, his former secretary. Photos show, top, the wrecked car after the explosion, and below, the Payne children, A. D., Jr., La Dell, and Bobbie Jean. Payne has requested that he "be hurried to the electric chair."

KILLED BY BANDITS WHILE RESISTING ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Restaurant Man Slain As
Gunmen Loot Cash
Register

MARION, O., Aug. 9.—Shot and fatally wounded when he attempted to resist three unmasked bandits who entered his restaurant in the heart of the business district here last night and robbed his cash drawer, Amos Schultz, 55, is dead here today and authorities are searching for his three slayers who escaped in a delapidated coupe.

Schultz, who was preparing to close his eating place for the night, was shot close to the heart when he reached for a pop bottle while two of the men rifled the cash drawer. Only one shot was fired. The bandit who did the firing evidently thought Schultz was reaching for a gun.

When the hold-up men entered the restaurant, Schultz and Elmer Cornwell, 60, a porter, were alone. But Jack Albert, who had been sitting in front of his garage across the street, was forced to accompany the bandits into the restaurant to prevent him spreading any alarm.

The three men were forced to back up against the wall while one of the thugs kept them covered and the other went through the cash register. The loot taken from the register by the robbers aggregated about $250.

ELABORATE RADIO FACILITIES FOR HOTEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—One hundred ninety miles of wire, approximately 1,000,000 feet, is being used in the radio installation system, the most elaborate and largest in the country, in the new Waldorf-Astoria Hotel which is now under construction here.

Details of the system revealed today by the Western Electric Co., include:

Three antennae, a trio of strands one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter, practically invisible from the street 500 feet below.

A radio loud speaker with a program selector in each of the 2,000 private rooms so that a guest may tune in on any one of six radio broadcasts at any time.

Facilities for each guest to tune in his radio on the events in the public rooms of the hotel, such as conventions, banquets, dances or the orchestra programs in the dining rooms.

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT IN SENATE CONTEST FEATURES PRIMARY

Only Race Doubtful In
Both Parties Leaders
Believe

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9.—On the eve of Ohio's primary election, which is to be held next Tuesday, the contest for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator appeared today to be the only political race which is in doubt.

Belief that the outcome of this contest rests between W. W. Durbin, of Kenton, former chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, and former Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland attorney and "wet" candidate, is held by a number of Buckeye state political writers.

Other aspirants for this nomination are: Charles V. Truax, of Bucyrus, former state secretary of agriculture; former Congressman John McSweeney, of Wooster, and former State Representative George S. Myers, of Cleveland.

Of the Republican candidates, Governor Myers V. Cooper, Lieutenant Governor John T. Brown, Attorney General Gilbert Bettman and State Supreme Judges Reynolds R. Kinkade and James E. Robinson, all seeking renomination, are unopposed. United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, who desires to retain his present senatorial toga, has no opposition in the G. O. P. primary.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown is expected to defeat Edward J. Hummel, of Cincinnati, and win a third-term nomination. State Treasurer H. Ross Ake, likewise, is expected to oust Dan former State Treasurer Harry S. Day and Mrs. Pauline Buckley, wife of former State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley, in the race for the nomination for state treasurer. (Full term.)

Edwin A. Todd, now assistant state treasurer, has no opposition for the G. O. P. nomination for the short term as state treasurer.

Among the candidates for positions on the Democratic state ticket, former State Librarian J. H. Newman, now candidate for secretary of state, is the only one who has no opposition. There is no Democratic candidate for the short term for state treasurer.

Of the other Democratic contests, political writers expect the following nominations: for governor, former Congressman George White, of Marietta; for lieutenant governor, former Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel, of Dayton; for state treasurer, W. V. Coshorn, of Gallon, former clerk of the Ohio

MELVIN HORST CASE REVIVED BY NEW CLEW

Suspect Arrested But Denies Part In Ab-
duction

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 9.—Investigation of a mysterious, anonymous note which may lead to the solution of six-year-old Melvin Horst's disappearance of more than eighteen months ago, was being conducted by police officials here today.

The note, the second of its kind to enter into the case of the child's disappearance, was received yesterday on a postcard by Marion Graven of Wooster, Wayne County prosecutor. The note read:

"If you will get driver of roadster license No. 381,418, you will have right one for the Horst boy absent. Brown roadster. When you take him in charge I will tell my part of it." It was signed "One Who Knows."

William E. Cooper of Akron, the owner of the automobile with the license number mentioned in the note, when taken into custody by police, disclaimed any knowledge of the child's disappearance, it was said.

A similar note to the one received yesterday, was sent to an Orrville editor more than a year ago. It caused considerable excitement but failed to prove of any value in the search for the missing boy, according to police.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN TRAPPED BY SLIDE

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9.—Having been buried under tons of dirt and other debris, when a top rock at the Gilbert Colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co., ten miles from here, became loose and fell about fifty feet, seven men are dead today and sixteen are injured.

Three of the injured men were said to be in a serious condition at a hospital.

The accident occurred about 1900 feet underground on the third level. The men were placing new

BELIEVE AGED PAIR MISSING SINCE MAY ROBBED AND KILLED

Swamp Pool May Hold
Secret Of Strange
Disappearance

STOW, Mass., Aug. 9.—That the dark depths of a pool on Cedar Swamp holds the secret of the disappearance of an aged farmer and his wife, much in the same manner as the mysterious vanishing of the first owner of the farm, seventy years ago, was the belief today of investigators who are searching for the bodies of William Stefanovich, and his wife Stacia.

The couple, both about 65 years of age, has not been seen since May.

Investigators saw a similarity in their disappearance to that of "Tiger" Hale, a former owner of the farm known as the "old George Hale" farm who was believed slain, robbed of $4,000 and his body thrown into the deep pool, its sides and bottom covered with quick-sands.

Today, state, local and Hudson police continued the search for the aged couple, after a report that Stefanovich and his wife had gone to Chicago for treatment for a "stomach ailment" was proved untrue by word from Chicago that no Massachusetts couple had gone there for treatment in the past two months.

Meanwhile, a widespread search was under way for a man known as Joseph Stefanosky, farm manager hired to operate the farm for the couple, who has not been seen since last Saturday.

JAPANESE VOLCANO SPOUTING CINDERS

TOKIO, Aug. 9.—The Japanese volcano Mount Asama today was spouting forth an incandescent cloud of cinders and ashes, spreading a foreboding smoke pall over Karuizawa, favorite summer resort of Europeans.

The eruption followed a sudden violent explosion and intense rumbling continuing intermittently as many inhabitants around its base feverishly transported all belongings out of the danger zone.

Scores of the 800 foreigners summering there, among them many Americans prepared to leave the vicinity as the disturbance continued.

This is the third and most severe eruption of Asama since last June.

CUP CHALLENGER RIDES OUT STORM

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's America's cup challenger, was making excellent progress today after riding out blustering gale, according to information which was received here.

Accompanied by its escort, the steam yacht Erin, the trim craft is plowing its way across the Atlantic toward Bermuda, from where it will sail for Newport, R. I., to participate in the September cup races.

AUTO HURTS FATAL

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—Robert C. Veach, 18-year-old son of Bob Veach, former outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, had died today as the result of injuries which he sustained July 30 when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another which was said to have been driven by David Buck, of Lorain, Ohio.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF NEEDED TO SALVAGE EVEN HALF OF CROP

Livestock Is Also In Danger
Result Of Rain
Shortage

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Immediate relief will be necessary if farmers of the middle west are to salvage even 50 per cent of their corn crop from the drought, reports indicated here today.

The intense heat and lack of anything near a normal rainfall already have taken their greatest toll in years throughout the corn belt, farmers reported, and this damage will continue to mount rapidly if copious rain is not available within the next few hours.

Reports from Kansas said farmers here hoped to salvage barely enough corn for feeding purposes, while those in areas worst affected were considering the necessity of turning to wheat for livestock food.

Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and the Dakotas, also saw little hope for immediate relief and farmers in those states already have lost from one-third to half of their corn crops.

Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, in addition to corn crop damage, reported serious danger to livestock because of the water shortage in many sections.

The grain market, reflecting the effects of the drought, was expected to recover today from its sharp decline of yesterday. Weather reports from 213 reporting stations during the past five days showed that only sixteen had received an inch or more of rain in that period.

Professional traders were looking to the government's monthly report due next Monday, which is expected to be bullish. This report, however, will not be infallible as considerable deterioration has resulted since it was compiled.

Basing their opinion on the manner in which farmers have sold old cash corn to arrive in the past three days, Chicago receivers were convinced plenty of grain would be available despite the drought. Purchases were estimated from 750,000 bushels upward.

The grain market, reflecting the effects of the drought, was expected to recover today from its sharp decline of yesterday. Weather reports from 213 reporting stations during the past five days showed that only sixteen had received an inch or more of rain in that period.

POLICE TRACE BOMB SENDER; INFERNAL MACHINE FAILURE

Woman Has Narrow
Escape From Death
By Bombing

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—Police today were attempting to discover the source of a "mouse trap" bomb which was sent through the mail to Mrs. Catherine Breunig but which failed to function when the package containing it was opened.

The infernal machine, which turned out to be a dud and which was preceded by a letter to Mrs. Breunig telling her to expect a package which should contain her self and by no means show her husband, was unwrapped out of curiosity by Mrs. Elmer Littlekan, Mrs. Breunig's sister. Mrs. Breunig had treated the letter and the package as a joke.

The amateur infernal machine consisted of a tiny cedar chest of the variety used frequently as candy boxes, containing a small bottle of nitro-glycerine, two torpedoes, with a fuse leading from them to the nitro glycerine, and a large mouse trap attached to the top of the box. When the box was opened the torpedoes exploded frightening the two women but the deadly nitro-glycerine charge was not set off.

Police arrested George W. Masserang, of East St. Louis, Mrs. Breunig's first husband, but refused to comment on the arrest.

Mrs. Breunig said that she recognized the handwriting in the letter which preceded the bomb as that of a man she had known some time before.

YOUTH HELD FOR KILLING OFFICER

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—Held without bail in the murder last Sunday night of Patrolman Joseph P. O'Brien, of Brookline, Thomas C. Healy, Pittsburgh youth, was in Dedham jail today while police search continued for Paul Hurley, who, the prosecution contends, fired the fatal shots.

It was Healy's statements here and in New York where he was arrested, that resulted in his being held for the grand jury of Norfolk County. Judge Philip S. Parker in Brookline Court held that as long as it could be shown that Healy was present when the shooting was done it was sufficient for finding probable cause.

The public fund for the slain patrolman's wife and four year old daughter today reached a total of $3,758.

Barbara Jean Hawkins, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hawkins, Fairground Road, was treated for a bad cut on her head which she received when she fell while on the grounds and two women were revived when they fainted after being overcome by the heat.

Two men from Springfield, Check McFarland and Jack Titus, appearing in a boxing exhibition at the fair were given first aid treatment for a broken arch in the right foot and a split thumb, respectively. Three men employed on the grounds were treated for injured hands, received in their work, according to Miss Lyon's report.

JOHN M'SWEENEY IS VISITOR FRIDAY ON CAMPAIGN JOURNEY

John McSweeney, of Wooster, Democratic candidate for the United States Senator nomination, was in Xenia Friday afternoon in the interest of his campaign. McSweeney was enroute from Columbus to Cincinnati where he was to deliver his final pre-primary speech. McSweeney was making his final campaign swing through this part of the state. He has traveled more than 13,000 miles in the past three months, making a personal campaign in each town he went through.

The Wooster man is well known to ex-service men of the 147th Infantry here. During the World War he served as a Lieutenant and captain of Co. I and of the Machine Gun Company of the 147th Infantry. He was later made aide-de-camp of General Charles S. Farnsworth.

Following the war McSweeney came back to Wooster and served three terms in Congress from the Sixteenth District. At present he is an attorney, practicing law in Wooster where both his father and grandfather were prominent lawyers.

Star Gazing

By RADIE HARRIS

By Central Press
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., August 8.—In Hollywood, the land of the rave and the home of the spree, from where more rumors emanate than movie stars, Janet Gaynor is the topical conversation of the hour. Everywhere one goes, one hears Mother Grundy's tongue working overtime with reports of the great battle now being waged between Janet and her mentors, the Fox Films Co.

Ever since my arrival in Hollywood, I have heard nothing but brickbats hurled miscellaneously at Mrs. Gaynor's little girl. . . she is holding out for $9,000 a week. . . she asks for complete supervision of her stories. . . she claims she can get $250,000 a picture. . . she seems to forget that she owes her present exalted position to Fox. . . she is unappreciative, temperamental, unmanageable. . . ugly comments without even the semblance of truth!

LIVES IN SECLUSION.
With all these rumors gaining momentum daily, Janet herself, remains in blissful seclusion at her little beach bungalow on the sands of Playa Del Rey. Taking advantage of our long standing friendship, it was there that I visited her one day last week.

My visit to Janet was not for the purpose of an interview, and yet, as inevitably during the course of conversation we drifted into a discussion of her contractual difficulties, I couldn't help but feel that I wouldn't be playing fair to my readers (all of whom are rabid Janet Gaynor fans) if I didn't publicize to which she has been subjected by giving you HER side of the story.

"I have no axe to grind with Fox," she began as she curled up in a couch. "I owe everything to them for giving me my golden opportunity in 'Seventh Heaven,' and despite all reports to the contrary, I have never lost sight of that fact. My one and only grievance and the reason that I haven't been near the studio in six months is 'High Society Blues.'"

"All during the making of that picture, I was utterly miserable. I was playing a part that was entirely unsuitable—a role that any one just starting in pictures could have played much better.

"I only made 'Sunny Side Up' as an experience. I wanted my next picture to be a dramatic portrayal—not another musical. After making 'High Society Blues' against my better judgment, I was not only so ill physically (I went down to ninety lbs.) but also so mentally distraught that I felt as if I never wanted to make another picture again.

"If I were the sort of person who could play in any picture as long as I received my salary check each week and it was a box-office success, I would have no cause for complaint.

SATISFIED WITH SALARY.
"All I am asking of Fox now is to grant me the privilege of having a completed manuscript before I start a picture. In this way I will know the role I am to play without plunging into it in the dark. I am not making an increased salary demand, asking for supervision of story and cast or any of the other unreasonable and absurd requests accredited to me. And now, Radie, you have the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Cross my heart and hope to die!"

Because Janet was sweet enough to give me such an exclusive story I am passing it on to you, her fans. How do you feel about it? Do you think Janet is right in her determination to remain off the screen until she and Fox can come to terms about a proper vehicle for her unusual talents. Remember, it is you fans who have made her the Queen of Screenland. It is up to you to see that she doesn't lose her royal crown.

Let's hear what you have to say. Write me your opinion, care Miss Radie Harris, Hotel Roosevelt, Hollywood, Cal.

Unless some close contests develop, the final broadcast will end at 1:45 a. m. Otherwise, broadcast will continue throughout the night and during the following day.

Effort is being made to have United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, who was recently chosen as chairman of the Republican national committee, act as chairman and deliver the keynote address at the G. O. P. state platform convention here shortly after the primary election.

Another proposal is that Charles R. Frederickson, Coshocton manufacturer, manage the Ohio Republican campaign this fall. Frederickson was G. O. P. state campaign manager during the fall of 1926 when former Governor Vic Donahey defeated Governor Cooper as the Republican gubernatorial nominee.

ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN FREEDOM ON HABEAS CORPUS IS FAILURE

Andrew Kender, Dayton, recently committed to the County Jail to serve out fines of $50 and costs and $100 and costs, imposed by A. E. Longstreth, Bath Twp. justice of the peace, on charges of illegal selling fish and resisting arrest, failed to gain his release from jail Saturday morning when Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy denied him a writ of habeas corpus, following a court hearing on his application.

Kender was represented by Attorney John Hoover, Dayton, who argued that his client was denied the right of a jury trial by the magistrate. The contention was also made that some of the necessary legal procedure was omitted in the prosecution of Kender's case.

For instance, he said, the affidavit failed to stipulate Kender was more than sixteen years of age. He added, however, there was no need to debate this point. Pointing to his client, who is about 54, he observed that it was too hot to talk at great length anyway.

The court denied the writ, declaring the conservation laws do not provide for the necessity of granting a jury trial upon demand. Kender was remanded to jail.

ENDURANCE FLYERS ON "HOME STRETCH"

LANCASTER, ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 8.—Working on the theory that the first hundred years are the longest Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, endurance flyers who are attempting to set a new world record were expected to find their final hundred hours, into which they zoomed this morning, the shortest.

At 7:11 the cloud-clinging "Great St. Louis" had been cruising the sky paths for 456 hours or nineteen days. Less than 100 hours remained until the two veteran flyers should have revenge upon the Hunter brothers who recently broke the record Jackson and O'Brien set in the "St. Louis Robin" by remaining above Chicago for more than 553 hours.

BANDITS GET BIG PAYROLL

DAYTON, O., Aug. 9.—Two daring desperados seized a $12,000 payroll here today and speeded away to at least temporary safety.

The victim was Francis Minnigan, superintendent of the H. R. Blagg Construction Co., which is building a new building for the Bell Telephone Co. in Dayton. With a chauffeur, Minnigan stopped for a traffic light at the edge of the downtown business section. Drawing pistols, two youthful bandits jumped on the running boards of Minnigan's automobile, grabbed the payroll sack and dashed away in their own car just as the traffic light changed.

Minnigan was unsuccessful in attempting to follow the robbers.

MORE GOLD STAR MOTHERS SAIL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—A contingent of 176 gold star mothers sailed for France today to place a wreath on the graves of their sons who died in the World War.

At 7:00 o'clock this morning they were called for breakfast. At 9:00 they were taken in buses from the Hotel Astor, in the heart of Broadway, where they stopped, to the piers. Every detail of the trip has been arranged by the United States army officers who have already sent more than 1,000 gold star mothers on pilgrimages to France.

Promptly at noon the United States liner President Roosevelt carried them out into the cool waters of the Atlantic.

Just twelve years ago the sons of these same mothers sailed for France also. But in those dark days of 1918 the ships crept out of the harbor in the thick of night. These mothers sailing today try not to let the memories of the days "over there" crowd back too quickly. There will be lots of time for remembering.

NATIONAL GRANGE MASTER WILL SPEAK AT GRANGE OUTING

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, will be the principal speaker on the program to be held in conjunction with the annual picnic and outing of Greene County Granges to be held at the Greene County Fairgrounds, Thursday, August 14. Other details of the program are not yet complete according to S. H. Shawhan, deputy master of Greene County.

Mr. Taber, whose home is in Columbus, spent the past year in Washington, D. C., and his speech will deal authoritatively with farm legislative matters. All farmers of Greene County and other interested persons are invited to attend the picnic and hear Mr. Taber's address. The picnic is being sponsored by Greene County Pomona Grange and dinner will be served at 12:30 p. m.

DUCHESS OF YORK IN GOOD HEALTH

GLAMIS SCOTLAND, Aug. 9.—Cheered by reports of the duchess of York's fine health, Britain today continued in an attitude of hopeful waiting as the birth of the second child of the York family was hourly expected.

In case the new member of the British royal family should be a boy, national rejoicing would inevitably follow, as in that case the empire would have an "heir presumptive."

"Liberation of the Highways" is the slogan of Mr. Fred M. Ervin, who is candidate for the Ohio Legislature on a platform which is solidly in behalf of the rights of the masses of the people as opposed to special privileges for favored interests who influence legislation by paid lobbyists.

As an illustration of the evils of special privilege lobbying Mr. Ervin cites the trucking bill, lobbied through the Ohio Legislature by the Ohio Commercial Haulers (the organization of certified haulers) who boasted of a $25,000 expenditure to put the bill across. This bill forbids the use of privately owned trucks or vehicles for any hire, with penalties of from $25 to $10,000 for violations. This bill subjects any farmer to fine for delivering a peck of potatoes, a chicken or any other article, for any relative or neighbor, if any compensation is in any way involved. Mr. Ervin states that he was sitting in a public utility hearing when fifteen farmers were ordered to "cease and desist immediately" from hauling even a load of live stock for their neighbors for "hire" and the "hire" was interpreted to mean "anything of value." A day's labor given to the neighbor in exchange for the trucking accommodation was interpreted as "hire." Although the farmer is the one who has paid the most for the road he is not allowed to haul even the smallest article over it for "hire." Only licensed truckers, who have organized and paid one cent of construction cost for the road are privileged to realize any money returns on the use of it.

It is such manifestly unfair legislation that Mr. Ervin is pledged to combat if elected to office. Mr. Ervin also believes there should be closer contact between the legislator and his constituency and if elected will set aside a day each week to meet with any who wish to discuss any pending or possible legislation. Conscientious service, in which every proposed bit of legislation will be carefully weighed with the good of the majority always in mind, is pledged to the voters by Mr. Ervin.

FORMER SOLON MUST FACE LIQUOR TRIAL

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Manuel Herriek, former Republican congressman from Oklahoma, who was caught, prohibition agents said, attending a still in a secluded section of St. Mary's County, Md., will have to stand trial in federal court just like any other alleged moonshiner, J. L. Acuff, chief of the division of special agents, said today.

Some observers had believed the case might be handled differently as Herriek has on file with the prohibition bureau in Washington, an application for appointment as an under-cover agent. In his talks with officials there he said he could give them an abundance of evidence about moonshining in lower Maryland.

Herriek is held in jail in default of bail.

NAVY PEEVED OVER COOLIDGE REMARKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The navy department today took exception to Calvin Coolidge's comment on airplane motors in which he wrote:

"A naval office reports that the best engine is made abroad. That is disconcerting. With the resources now available, the science of construction and the art of safe navigation ought to command the most intensive research by both governmental and private agencies. We cannot afford any second place."

Acting Secretary of the Navy Jahncke said he believes the navy "is regarded as largely responsible for the creation and success of the air-cooled engine which made Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris possible, together with the tremendous advances in aviation that followed.

"These engines are without superiors anywhere in the world and are produced in quantities by several American aircraft engine manufacturing concerns," Jahncke said.

LUNDGREN MAY TAKE OFF NEXT WEEK, SAID

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Ted Lundgren, California aviator, may take off early next week on his attempt to lower the Graf Zeppelin's time of twenty-one days for a flight around the world. It was learned today. Passports for Lundgren and two assistants were expected here Monday and it was indicated the take-off would be made within a day or two after their receipt.

The tentative itinerary is by way of Old Orchard, Me., Berlin, Omsk, Tokio, Seattle and back to Roosevelt Field.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WAY OF LIFE—Enter ye in at the strait gate, for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.—Matthew 7:13, 14.

HITCHING POST DAYS

It was not so many years ago, that the space along the sides of streets now allotted in most towns to parking for automobiles, was occupied by long rows of horses and carriages. Provision of a good number of hitching posts was considered a helpful measure for trade. The country people liked to drive into places where they could hitch their horses close to the stores.

The long rows of horses tied to these posts filled up the streets in many towns, but if people complained and wanted the teams hitched elsewhere, the merchants said it interfered with their trade.

The automobiles of today do not have to be hitched, they never run away, but there are so many more of them that they fill the streets fuller than they used to be in the most palmy hitching post days. The driver who takes up more space by his careless parking than he should, or who puts his car in a forbidden space, causes inconvenience and danger to the public. The old hitching post times had their disadvantages, but life on the streets was safer and less anxious then.

LEARNING TO DRIVE

The public has to be tolerant of the inexperience of the many people who are learning to drive automobiles, but it expects them to take all reasonable precautions. As practically everyone in future years will learn to drive cars, these people have to do their practicing, and people will somehow have to get out of their way, but they should not take needless risks.

They should keep off crowded roads and congested town centers until they have acquired some skill. They do not fully realize the power of the machine which their inexperienced hands are guiding. The most important thing for them to remember is to keep their cars under control every minute, so they can stop if they see the least danger of trouble.

YOUTH AND ITS FREEDOM

A friend, having passed a few days ago a high school building in a considerable city around which there were parked about 100 automobiles, remarked on what a change those cars indicated from the old days when the boys and girls walked to school. In the country town where he came from, there was quite a group who walked three miles each way five days in the week. Today, the sons of many of these folks are unable to walk a mile to school and back, and many of them have the free use of the family car to drive to and from school.

The conversation went on to remark on the place of the automobile in these children's lives after school. They are rebellious and discontented unless they have quite free use of the family car. If they want to go to some show or dance in another city, they usually go. Parents may know nothing about the character of the affair, but youth feels perfectly competent to judge.

Then there are the cars parked in shady nooks in some lonely street with scenes of sentiment inside. Many of these young people come through these experiences all right, but some do not. They may be no worse than their parents were at the same age, and they know some dangers of which their parents at the same age were innocently ignorant. But parents naturally tremble about all the temptations of modern life.

It is up to parents in these days of freedom to get very close to their children. Start in early, utilize the age when they feel dependent on you, to teach them obedience. Make yourselves their best loved friend, so they want to please you. When they reach the independent age, explain everything to them, so they know the reasons for your standards.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHAT SCIENCE CAN'T DO

"It is one thing for science to increase man's control over the forces of nature; it is quite another to make man wise and good."

This is a thoughtful remark by President Bizzell of the University of Oklahoma. Those who look to science and the study of the physical world to solve all human problems forget that the question of spiritual values lies in another field. There are some things that are felt and they are as important as the things that are seen. There are some things that are judged by emotions, but that judgment may be as sound as the judgment by statistics.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

According to the census figures the average marriage rate for 25 states was about 12 to 1,000 persons, compared with 11 in 1928. The divorce rate for the same area dropped a little. The divorce rate was a little less than three to the thousand. The marriage rate for those 25 states was higher in 1930 than any other rate on record. It appears marriage grows a little more popular and divorce a little less so.

A PAYING INVESTMENT

Auer, great violin teacher, passes on at 85. Among his pupils, later famous, were Elman, Zimbalist, Helfetz, Max Rosen. By his great teaching capacity and his knowledge of music Auer changed the lives of thousands. He needs no monument. He goes on living in the lives of others. He invested himself. It paid.

OUT OF THE AIR

The day may come when we will make food and fuel out of the air. Then our raw material will be inexhaustible. The Society of Chemical Industry, meeting in England, hears a Manchester scientist tell of a world in which the great coal deposits will one day be used up. We will learn how to manufacture fuel and food from water, sun, soil, air, by new methods. After all, our national wealth is not to be reckoned altogether in terms of material resources. Our greatest wealth lies in the unfailing ingenuity—the brains—of men and women.

EXPENSIVE FIGHTING

Man's love of settling his troubles by fighting costs him millions upon millions in tax money. Paying for wars we have already had and preparing for those we may have is costing the United States $2,800,000,000 a year. Of the billions voted for the support of the government, about 70 per cent goes for war-like purposes. And yet loose-mouthed law-makers will rattle on for hours trying to ballyhoo Uncle Sam into having the biggest navy on earth.

THE QUESTION BOX

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 123, Washington, D. C., an enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

What do the letters "S O S" stand for?

The International Radiotelegraph conference at London in 1912 selected the letters "S O S" for the radio distress call. The individual letters stand for nothing, but the combination signifies distress by the sender. The combination was chosen because the dots and dashes used were so simple that the most inexperienced radio operator would have no difficulty in detecting it. The call is three dots, three dashes and three dots.

Thunder and Lightning

How far away can lightning and thunder be observed? Lightning, under favorable conditions, can be seen at least 100 miles away. Thunder seldom is heard more than 20 miles, and usually not over 10 or 15 miles.

Iodine Poisoning

What is the antidote for iodine poisoning? According to competent authority, the best method of counteracting iodine poisoning is to give the patient a large tea cup of starch, mixed with cold water to about the thickness of good buttermilk. Then produce vomiting by putting the finger in the throat, or by an emetic.

The Franklin Family

Did Benjamin Franklin have any brothers or sisters? Benjamin Franklin was the fifteenth child in a family of 17 children, there being both brothers and sisters.

Incubators for Babies

Are incubators used to aid newborn babies to live? Incubators are used for purpose of rearing babies that are too weak to survive under normal conditions. The first one ever used was constructed under the guidance of Dr. Tarnier, in 1880, and used at the Paris Maternity hospital.

Our Negro Soldiers

Is it true that there are regiments of colored men in our army composed of Negroes? The United States army has four regiments of colored men. These regiments have been in existence since shortly after the Civil war, and are the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth infantry and the Ninth and Tenth cavalry.

Radio at Sea

Does the government require all ocean going vessels to carry radio? All vessels traveling 200 miles or more and carrying 50 passengers or more, are required to be equipped with radios.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK. — Dora Maughn, "of the stage," who just returned from a sojourn abroad and who boasts that she is "only one husband behind Peggy Joyce," recounts a story they're telling in Paris about P. Hopkins J. Peggy, so the narrative runs, recently met a wealthy South American, a world traveler, who, while in Africa, was bitten by the tse-tse fly and in consequence is afflicted with sleeping sickness.

"And they do say in Paris," recounts Dora Maughn, "that every time Peggy asks this gentleman for something, he's snoring!"

QUANDARY

And I suppose you've heard Benny Rubin's story about the little boy who asked his cloak-and-suit papa what "ethics" meant. "It's like this," said Papa. "Today a man comes in the shop and buys a suit for $20. Just as he's leaving I find he's given me two $20 bills stuck together. Right there comes ethics—should I tell my partner!"

A CLERK AND $35,000

Up to a couple of days ago he had a job as teller in a New York bank. He'd worked there for three years and got $50 a week. He has a wife and two kids. They lived in a little, inconsequential flat, five flights up, a step at a time, in the rear. They had a second hand flivver, a radio that was being bought on time, and that's all. They paid cash at the shops of neighborhood tradesmen—their only bill being a small account with the newspaper dealer.

The other day he entered the bank with a lunch box under his arm, explaining that he and his wife and two kids were going to take a "little outing." He worked late that afternoon and when he left he had $35,000 of the bank's funds stowed away in his "lunch box."

Earlier that day his wife, after paying the paper bill, had hailed a taxi, bundled in her two kids and her personal effects and they were

HOOVER'S CAMPAIGN LINE-UP NOTABLE FOR ITS OHIO COLOR

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—There is a great deal of Ohio in President Hoover's campaign lineup for 1932.

Senator Simon D. Fess—chosen to succeed Claudius H. Huston as chairman of the G. O. P. national committee—was from Yellow Springs (O.). J. R. Nutt—the committee's treasurer—is from Cleveland (O.). Postmaster General Walter F. Brown—real boss of the whole organization and presumably slated to take over Senator Fess' chairmanship when the campaign actually begins—is from Toledo (O.).

Politicians are beginning to refer again to "the Ohio gang"—which is hardly fair; the present Buckeye state group is by no means the same one that bulked so largely in President Harding's time. Public men, however, are jealous folk; if they fancy that some particular little coterie has an edge on the remainder, they say mean things.

After all, the most capricious critics recognize a graduate who has passed a good examination in Ohio's political school as among the best in the country—and Walter Brown took a "cum laude" degree.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was not unkindful of it, back in 1927, when he picked Walter as his departmental assistant—and to be his manager, with a view to what might happen to develop in the course of the ensuing year. Quite a lot did develop, as will be recalled—and its outcome would seem to imply that Walter's management was not a bit bad.

Mr. Hoover showed his appreciation of that, too, on becoming president, by conferring upon Walter the postmaster generalship, the most political of all cabinet jobs, because of the vast number and wide distribution of appointments at its incumbency's disposal, where-with to gladden the hearts of small office seekers throughout the land—or perchance to raise hedges, if they are injudiciously made.

Nevertheless, there were signs that Walter, having delivered the goods, was not left subsequently for some time, to run things in just his own way.

Anyhow, rumors circulated of disagreements between Postmaster General Brown and various southern politicians, who had lent aid to the Hoover cause, concerning the dispensing of federal favors in the latter's respective bailiwicks.

For awhile it certainly looked as if the presidential tendency were to side against Postmaster General Brown.

How this situation may have arisen is understandable. Republican strategists, like Walter Brown, have their uses for southern delegates in national conventions; their votes are as serviceable as any other votes in effecting nominations.

Accordingly these strategists, in the past, have aimed to adapt their southern state G. O. P. organizations to convention utility, which is decidedly a different matter from adapting them to the piling up of majorities on election days—the off-joined later by Pop, with the 35,000.

They had sold their car. The radio man had taken the machine away. The only debt they left behind was the small one that Pop had incurred at the bank. He's 28. She's 24. They're very much in love with each other and the kids. The neighbors say they were as supremely happy a little family as ever lived.

Strange as it may seem, there isn't a soul that's laid his head on his arm and wept for the bank.

strategists' theory being that the south is Republicanly undependable, or worse, at the polls.

The last election, however, was an exception—Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas, as we know, having flopped to Mr. Hoover. The question thereupon arose:

Could these Republican footholds in Dixie be consolidated? If so, it was obvious that Dixie's G. O. P. organizations needed overhauling, improvement, new blood—the replacing of the old type of bosses with aggressive managers of the newer breed; that is, with the Hoovercratic leaders, who had just won.

President Hoover evidently believed it could be done.

He discussed the plan more than once at his meetings with the newspaper correspondents in the early days following his inauguration—was committed to it unmistakably.

Postmaster General Brown soon began to act as if he thought otherwise—as if he feared that the readjustment would spoil the old machinery for convention purposes, without furnishing a new one of compensatory reliability in the returning of southern statewide Republican majorities.

That this was the postmaster general's judgment can only be guessed, for naturally it was not proclaimed from the top of his department building—but it looked like a fair inference, considering

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

PETER'S MISTAKE

Worker Ant was hopping up and down, clapping her antennae together. The little insect was gleeful, but Peter couldn't see any reason to be so merry.

"You say we're at our journey's end, friend, but I must say this spot looks no different to me than any other spot. What makes it home to you?" Worker Ant snickered.

"Just wait and you shall see, boy. By the way, you haven't said a word about that hill across the road!" Peter glanced across the road. Then he stared at his companion.

"You wouldn't fool me, Ant, would you?" demanded the boy. "What do you mean by asking me if I notice a hill? How could I? There isn't any! The country is as flat as a pancake!"

"Your mistake, boy!" declared Worker Ant, promptly. "I have lived in these parts all of my life and I guess I know my landscape. There is a hill across the road and you'd see it if you'd keep your eyes on the ground where they should be. Whenever heard of searching the skies for an ant home!"

Peter knew better than to answer back when the usually mild Worker Ant spoke so sternly. Instead, he did as he was bid, and looked at the ground. Sure enough, there was a mound of brown earth.

"A mound where I had been looking for a mountain!" chuckled Peter. "So that's where you live with your cousins and your aunts, is it? And somewhere within that mound I'll find new quarters. Come on, Ant. I want to see what my new home is going to be like!" Peter dashed off, hot-foot, Worker Ant gawdled behind him.

See To Child's Health

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

We parents are like other people. We let things go; we procrastinate. We wait, perhaps, for something to turn up, or we have the hope that by and by all things will work out for the best.

One thing we never can afford to neglect—our children's health. About a month from now they will be trudging off to school. They will have a long ten months ahead.

Going to school is a much more serious and important matter than we usually suppose it is. Every day the child spends there well and happy is a day invested in his future life's success; every day he misses is a very positive loss. The child who is absent one day loses practically two days in school progress. If from illness he is absent he upon return is greatly handicapped and at a time when he is least able to overcome this handicap.

We cannot absolutely guarantee our children against illness; but in summer we can do a great deal to assure their health in winter. Such remedial defects as bad tonsils and decayed teeth predispose the child toward general illness. The child with such defects more readily contracts colds and other ills. The child who is malnourished is also an easy victim of diseases.

We want our children to begin the new school year as strong and well as possible. Now is the time to have them checked upon by the doctor and the dentist, and to have all corrections of discovered defects made as soon as possible. Those who can well afford it will call upon their family specialists; others have available in almost every neighborhood reliable expert assistance, such as the public health center or the public clinic. Now there hardly is a neighborhood without such services within the reach of practically every child. The child who is to go to school this fall for the first time should, by all means, be given a once over physically. His first years is, no doubt, the most trying one. He may have physical defects which, if not corrected now, may retard his physical and mental growth throughout his whole school life.

If tonsils or adenoids must be removed they should be removed at once. Then the child will have ample time to regain strength before his school begins. Such operations call for time; so also does dental care. Have these corrections made now and you avoid breaking into the child's school time later.

The eyes of your older children may need attention, too. Nothing so handicaps the pupil's progress as poor vision. Some bright children with undiscovered eye defects are school failures.

Most school difficulties center about reading. The child of average or superior ability, who is very poor in history, geography or science, say, is generally poor because he cannot read well. Sometimes he can't read well because he can't see well. If your child failed last term, or received low grades, be sure to have his eyes checked upon before he starts to school. Better have a specialist look upon his hearing, too. Most schools make such examination, but bad cases sometimes get by them undiscovered.

If your child is underweight work out a program to increase his weight.

Hunt Good In People

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I just read Lonesome's letter and can't figure out how she can be such a good girl when all she can see is such a rotten world.

"I haven't the wonderful education she has. In fact, I haven't very much, but I read lots, love music, have pets, support my mother and sister, and have for four years, since my daddy died, I helped him lots before, so I was able to just keep right on.

"I meet people, mostly men, of all walks of life. Some have a pretty hard reputation, but as a rule they're of good shooting bunch. I've never been treated rudely, and I've been among them almost nine years.

"If a girl don't care to smoke, drink or pet she don't have to. I don't do those things. As this is supposed to be a free world, I don't see where anyone has to do things like that if they don't want to. If they do, I'm sure it's their business.

"It takes all kinds of people to make the world, but I haven't met many girls that smoke, though I never chum around with girls. You see, I was almost brought up among fellows. Girls and women have rather sassy tongues and say things that aren't true.

"Lonesome, you've most likely always been sheltered. That's why you've decided everyone except yourself is bad. The world is full of good people, but, of course, you sometimes have to hunt the good in them, and you can't judge people all the time from the outside. But I will say, if the girls were like the fellows, there would be less heartache.

"I suppose the girls will say, 'Gee, mind you, girls taking the boys' side.' But, the fellows have always been wonderful friends to me, the girls never. No, I don't ever kiss or love around them. I'll sign myself just what I'm mostly called.

"JUST ONE GIRL IN A THOUSAND."

It's probably because you have been thrown with boys more than with girls that you think they make better friends, my dear. Maybe I have been particularly blessed with good friends of my own sex, but I have found few women who were not good friends, and even though some of them have had "sassy tongues" they always stood by and lent a helping hand in trouble.

It's an occasional human trait to say things that aren't true. It's not confined to either sex. Am glad you have found people, on the whole, pretty square, and am very glad to know you, and hope you will write again some time.

Every "unkissable" letter I read will be the last, as the discussion has lasted long enough. But then I receive a letter that is just too good to "blush" unseemly and waste its sweetness on the desert air, and I continue it. This just came in today's mail.

"Dear Miss Lee: I have noticed in the paper that George J. seems to be taking a mean beating from the girls since he wrote that there aren't any unkissable girls left. Well, George, I believe what you say is true, that there aren't any.

"Miss Lee, I have been going with girls since I was 13. I am now 18, and where is the girl that hasn't been kissed? Why, when you take them out, if you do not kiss, and pet them they consider you are dearer than the Dead Sea and give you no more dates.

"I will stick by George when he says they can all be kissed after going a month with them. I think it could be accomplished sooner. The girls seem to have learned a trade of their own, and know it from the bottom up, and kissing it seems to be.

"I hope this letter has put us on even terms with the opposites sex. Will you print it, as I know the girls would enjoy hearing up the fight? Unkissable girls, what a laugh! ANDY."

All right, Andy, you.

Use Vigorous Massage

By GLADYS GLAD

Although the thin, angular woman looks most unattractive in a bathing suit, I think that the really fat woman presents a far more lamentable appearance in such garb. And yet there is no necessity for any obese woman to have an ugly figure. An overly-plump figure can have excellent lines, provided that steps are taken to distribute the excess flesh evenly over the body. The woman who has pronounced excess of fat, despite a noticeable excess of pounds, is the woman who has eliminated the rolls of fat around knees, thighs, ankles and upper arms, and the bunch of flesh at the back of the neck.

Wherever such lumps of fat exist, I suggest that vigorous massage be used to break up the fatty tissue. Whether the fat be around the ankles, knees, thighs, neck or arms, a thorough massage should be administered twice a day for a period of five or ten minutes. For the back of the neck, where most fleshy women grow a wad of fat, the "patter" will prove more effective than kneading and massaging with the hands.

Massage undeniably breaks up fatty tissues. Most reducing machines are based upon this principle. But a machine is not really necessary. The fat can be eradicated equally as well by a massage with hands or "patter."

The woman who "keeps her lines" although she gets more than her normal share of weight, isn't one who lolls around all the time, either. She is, invariably, the active fat woman who does more than take a "dip" when she goes to the beaches.

Some people seem to believe that they can reduce their weight by making their beach trips nothing more than "frying" orgies. The sun's rays are indeed beneficial to the body. But they will not miraculously eliminate the excess fat from the body!

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hands
Elsie R.: When you allow your hands to hang relaxed at your sides, the blood rushes to them and makes them appear red. Hot water also brings the blood near the surface and makes the hands red.

Plastic Surgeons
Ramona J.: Certainly there are plastic surgeons in Philadelphia. The city department of health will give you a list of reliable plastic surgeons located in that city.

Hair Dyeing
Mrs. M. K. G. and Hazel Eyes: The only thing you can do is to have your hair dyed. Once you start this practice, however, it entails numerous trips to the beauty shop. For the work must be done by an expert in a reliable shop and not at home.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin, for each to cover cost of printing and mailing. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

Counterpart, roan wiggler of Dr. H. M. Parshall, Urbana, which twice lowered the track record at the fairgrounds Friday, the new mark of 2:04 shattering the old record of 2:05 and a quarter seconds, was the leading money-winning stallion of 1929 as well as the record holder of last season.

The horse is a Tennessee product and was bred at Columbia where the late Edward F. Geers made his headquarters for a number of years. As a young horse while in Tennessee, Counterpart acquired the reputation of being an outlaw by running away a few times.

Finally he was purchased by R. C. McClenathan, Erie, Pa., and turned over to Ed McGrath, Reading, Pa., to race. Counterpart made only a few starts in 1924 but the following year he was seen frequently on the Bay State and Orange County circuits.

In his first start at Norwich, Conn., he ran away. At Avon he landed a $5,000 event while at Endicott he defeated Robert Commodore in 2:06. During the next three years he was bothered with splints and was consigned to the New York sales in the fall of 1928.

Dr. Parshall bought him and transformed him into a real racing tool, driving him to victory in the American Pacing Derby valued at $25,000 at Kalamazoo, Mich., last year. Counterpart has a mark of 2:02 1/4 and last week shattered the track record at the Clinton County Fair at Wilmington, establishing a new mark there of 2:04 1/4, which was exceeded here by a quarter of a second.

Ohio University's Bobcats, champions of the Buckeye Conference in 1929 and one of the few undefeated and untied eleven in the nation last fall, face a three-game schedule, and with sixteen lettermen from the championship squad available, followers of the Bobcats expect another great team. Another unsullied record, however, is beyond hope or expectation. The Ohio U. season opens September 27 when Wilmington College visits the stadium. The Quakers last year boasted one of the strongest non-conference teams in Ohio and another good team will probably be ready for the opening encounter.

Washington C. H. High School will have an assistant coach and instructor in physical education next season in the person of Clyde Cramer, Uhrichsville, who for the last two years has been a regular end of Ohio U.'s grid team. Cramer will work with James M. Cramer, head coach, a Wittenberg graduate, Cramer and Maurer played football against each other two years ago in the Buckeye Conference.

The relief pitcher sent in by St. Paul Lutheran Church's softball team of Springfield in the game with the Lang Chevrolets here Thursday night was none other than "Dopey" Kreeger, former Wittenberg College basketball star. Kreeger, whose nickname is certainly no misnomer, went through a lot of motions in order to pitch a slow ball that had Langa baffled. He used it too much, however, to be completely effective. Kreeger played center for Wittenberg basketball last year and was usually high scorer of his team each game.

The E. Main St. miniature golf course is now open to residents of the East End, giving Xenia three midget links with another nearing completion on Dayton Hill. Clarence "Dutch" Harner operates the E. Main St. course.

CLARENCE BRENNAN WINS GOLF PRIZE

In a play-off Friday night for the $5 golf prize offered for low score on the Bobby Lou midget golf course on its formal opening day last Sunday, Clarence Brennan triumphed over Albert LaMar and Robert Downing, the three having been tied for the prize.

Brennan shot a 54, one stroke below the card of 55 turned in by LaMar for the eighteen holes. Downing was third with 61.

The management of the course has placed comfortable benches, tables and chairs at different points on the course for the convenience of patrons and also announced that week end prizes of $250 will be awarded for the lowest scores recorded in the men's and women's division Saturday and Sunday.

JOCKEY KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

CLEVELAND, Aug. 9.—Sport fans and members of the race track world today mourned the death of Leonard Madden, 26, well-known jockey, who was struck and instantly killed by a fast west-bound passenger train near here last night.

Madden met his death while trying to push his stalled auto from the tracks at a crossing near North Randall, where he and his wife had been residing during the Bainbridge racing season.

Mrs. Madden, who was helping her husband push the car, escaped death by leaping from the track a fraction of a second before the train struck the machine.

Madden's home was in Pittsburgh. He was well-known at racing ovals all over the country.

Counterpart Breaks Track Record Twice

PARSHALL PILOTS HIS PERFECT PACER TO MILE IN 2:04 AT FAIR

Lowers Record Set In 1928; Urbana Reinsman Has Two Straight Heat Winners As Day Ends Good Racing Meeting

By PHIL FRAME

Counterpart, the speedy ten-year-old roan stallion of Dr. H. M. Parshall, noted Urbana reinsman and grand circuit driver, broke and re-broke the existing track record over the half-mile oval at the fairgrounds Friday afternoon, establishing a new mark of 2:04 flat in winning in straight heats the free-for-all pace worth $400, feature offering of the closing card of the three-day shortship circuit meeting held in conjunction with the 1930 Greene County Fair.

The roan wiggler, winner of the $25,000 American Pacing Derby at Kalamazoo, Mich., in 1929, eclipsed the former record in both the first and second heats and in the second mile fairly burned up the track, clipping two and one-quarter seconds off the old mark of 2:06 1/4, set up by Becky Beall in 1928.

In his record-breaking mile, Counterpart reeled off the first quarter in 31 1/2, the half in 1:02 1/2, and the three-quarters in 1:33 1/2, and scooted the final quarter in a bang-up 30 1/2 to set the local record at a notch where it will in all probability stand for years to come and possibly for ever and a day.

The free-for-all fixture, third event on the program, was limited to a field of only four starters of which only one, Mose Direct, bay gelding, owned and driven by William Pavey, Sabina, furnished Dr. Parshall's brilliant stallion with stiff competition. The other two entries, both nominated by Pearl Sellers, Dayton, were distanced the second heat.

Dr. Parshall brought his pacer to the post fit and ready for the first heat and Counterpart turned the mile in 2:05 1/2, breaking the existing record by three-quarters of a second. The second heat was a hummer for Pavey drove Mose Direct to the front and set a dizzy pace for a half mile. Thoroughly warmed up, however, Counterpart breezed ahead easily at the three-quarter post and showed his heels to Mose Direct on the home stretch to again lower the record to 2:04 with Bon Frisco and Prince L straggling under the wire in wheel chairs.

The third and final heat was uninteresting as Dr. Parshall had accomplished what he had set out to do—smash the record to smithereens. Counterpart romped home again ahead of Mose Direct, his only competitor, in the comparatively slow time of 2:09 1/4.

NOTES ON COUNTY FAIR RACES

While no county fair race meeting of this or any other era is, or can be, classed by all as perfect, it must be remarked that the three-day program which came to a close at the fairgrounds Friday was as well conducted as is humanly possible and will certainly rank among the near-perfect, in the final summing up, as any here in former years. Members of the speed department deserve great credit for the manner in which arrangements were carried through to the very end, their only reward being one of satisfaction that the program went through to conclusion with few hitches and many expressions of commendation were voiced on all sides.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper visited the fair Friday afternoon, coming here from Lebanon, where he had a speaking engagement. The chief executive arrived about 4 o'clock, just in time to witness the third heat of the free-for-all pace, but too late to see the track record broken. Introduced to the crowd by H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, Governor Cooper gave a brief talk from the judge's stand, reciting the advantages of fairs in general from the standpoint of one who himself was long identified with these exhibitions in the capacity of president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association for eleven years.

Another distinguished fair visitor Friday was Judge I. L. Holderman, president of the Southwestern Ohio Shortship Fair Circuit, which includes the Greene County Fair. He is also president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association and secretary of the Montgomery County Fair board.

The entire purse of $600 in the 2:18 trotting stake was ordered held up by the three judges before the event was raced because General Walker, an entry of Dr. H. M. Parshall, Urbana, was thought ineligible to compete in this class. From all the evidence on hand, which consisted of a Wallace year book of 1929, the records indicated that gross winnings of this horse last year amounted to $3,653.50, whereas the 2:18 classification is limited to horses that have not won more than $2,000. Dr. Parshall told the judges these figures were incorrect. Because he did not have his registration card with him the three judges unanimously voted to declare the horse ineligible. It was decided, however, to permit the black gelding to race under protest when the Urbana reinsman filed a written affidavit of protest. The upshot of the controversy was that General Walker raced and won the event in straight heats.

Another fine crowd was in the stands Friday, attracted, no doubt, by the possibility the track record would be lowered. This hope was justified when Counterpart did the trick twice. The roan wiggler raced here last year as a nine-year-old but failed to break the record due to a slow track and was even beaten in the free-for-all event by Prue Grant, the horse which won the American Pacing Derby in 1927. Counterpart won this classic in 1929.

Earl Myers, Xenia, entered Binville, black mare by Binville, in the green trot and made a good showing in the second heat, finishing third. The local entry came in seventh in the first heat and sixth in the third mile.

The Bath Twp. band occupied the bandstand Friday and supplied music between each heat of the racing.

GRAHAM PAINTS AND WILMINGTON TEAM PLAY TIE CONTEST

Graham Paints, of the Xenia National League, and the Gallups, leading softball team of Wilmington, battled eight innings to a 5 to 5 tie in an exciting exhibition tilt at Cox Field Friday night. The game did not start until rather late and was called at the end of the eighth round because of darkness. Wilmington jumped into the lead by scoring once in the first stanza and three times in the second, but the Paints tallied a marker in the third and added two more in the fifth. The visitors scored once more in the fifth. Behind two runs, Gramams managed to even matters in the seventh by virtue of home runs by Kersey and Milburn. The eighth round was scoreless.

Lloyd Downey pitched for Gramams and after a shaky start settled down and pitched great ball, holding the Quakers to nine hits, whereas Gramams made ten bingles.

A return game between the two teams will be played at Wilmington next Tuesday night.

MAY INVOKE CURFEW ON MIDGET COURSE

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Residents of a fashionable apartment hotel here today had on file a motion to invoke the curfew law on a midget golf course adjoining the building.

Judge John H. Lyle gave the owner of the course until Monday to appear with witnesses to support his assertion that he never remained open after 1 a. m. The complaining tenants alleged that men and women, often in evening clothes, played until 3 or 4 a. m., sometimes becoming so noisy that sleep was impossible.

Resignation of Robert Haws, instructor in industrial arts at Xenia Central High School for the last four years, was submitted to Louis Hammerle, city school superintendent, Saturday. Mr. Haws, whose home is in Credo, W. Va., has been elected to teach industrial arts in a junior high school at Hamilton, O., during the 1930-31 school year. His successor at Central High is expected to be selected by the city school board at its next meeting the latter part of August.

Following his inspection trip over the grounds Governor Cooper expressed himself as being well pleased with the way affairs of the institution are being managed.

PLAYING WITH GUN PROVES DANGEROUS

Agnew White, 28, colored, 616 E. Second St., and Ethel Commodore, 29, colored, 610 E. Second St., were playing with a loaded revolver at the former's home Friday night when the gun was discharged accidentally.

That was the explanation White gave police for a seared wound across his forehead. The woman fled after the accident.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Selling orders for the principal stocks poured into the market from all quarters in the week-end session and prices settled down to a lower level, with new losses extending from 1 to 3 points. Heavy selling of the margin holdings of small speculators swelled the list and paved the way for a further attack by the bears in the first hour, but moderate rallies were in evidence at the end of that period.

For the first time in more than a month the tickers fell behind, and prices were relayed over the bond tickers. United States Steel at the low point of the first hour showed a loss of 2 1/2 points at 158 1/2, while New York Central was down 3 points at 157. Vanadium down 4 at 81 1/4; Warner Brothers down 2 1/4 at 25 1/4 and National Dairy Products down 1 1/4 at 50. The week-end business and industrial reviews offered little of encouragement in the way of business recovery. Losses in the drought areas were quite severe and the falling off in bank clearing indicated a decrease in the volume of domestic business. Professionals were on the market's neck in another effort to push prices lower and short covering in this period was comparatively small.

The Theater

Charlie Chaplin will be revealed in the guise of composer when his new picture, "City Lights," is released. The comedian, who is the last irreconcilable foe of talking pictures left in Hollywood, has written the lyrics and music for the theme song of his production. It is to be called "Wonderful, Beautiful Eyes" and will be introduced in the synchronized version by means of a phonograph.

There'll be no dialogue in the picture. Charlie's tramp character comes into a bar-parlor and hears the song played on a phonograph.

graph. After this the melody is woven throughout the score. Charlie has always been particular about the music for his films and has written several other numbers that will be used in the picture.

Studio associates believe the long-awaited comedy will be ready in a month now, and would have been released sooner if the hot weather had not delayed work.

This department regrets that it failed to mention the birthday of the talking pictures Wednesday. The first sound film, Vitaphone, was seen and heard August 6, 1926 at the Warner Theater in New York City. Giovanni Martinelli, Anna Case, Efrim Zimbalist, Harold Bauer, Roy Smek and others were the performers. A short time later a similar program was offered at Sid Grauman's Egyptian Theater in Hollywood. At that time twenty silent pictures were showing in Los Angeles. Now there is only one.

In spite of the general popular acceptance of the talkies, Chaplin has steadfastly maintained his opposition to this form of expression. "City Lights" has been in process of making almost ever since the talkies became generally accepted. Incidentally an old flame of Charlie's was married Friday in New York. She is May Collins, actress, who was engaged to Chaplin in 1921 but who married Edmund E. Thomas, real estate broker. Miss Collins has been playing in "Ladies All" in New York.

The tremendous success of Norma Shearer in "The Divorcee," which was "Ex-Wife" as a novel, has led Metro-Goldwyn Mayer to buy another story by Ursula Par-

FLYING RADIO STAR

Andy Sannella, Orchestra Leader, Commutes By
Plane For Broadcasts

Andy Sannella

By YANNER ALEXANDER
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Andy Sannella is known to most of his fans as orchestra leader, composer, and soloist on both saxophone and steel guitar in a number of nationally broadcast chain programs.

A glimpse into his personality, the flashing, dark, extremely Latin type, wouldn't be at all complete if it didn't take into account the real versatility shown in his private, non-professional life. When Andy's father came here just before his son was born, thirty years ago, he made sure that a true American, if there ever was one, was born on American soil.

Andy combines the music and fire of the Neapolitan with an ability to disregard the non-essential, to work hard and to enjoy practical aviation and short wave radio experimentation, for example, that is nothing but pure United States of good old Edison model.

Two years ago he married Miss Aileen MacConnell of Monoquet, Ind., and composed "Aileen" in celebration. Today he has a charming summer home at Monoquet with a summer house built by himself, where he has installed piano and pipe organ for use during composition. Then he commutes in his own airplane to New York for necessary "mike" work during the warm months.

His own fondness for aviation grew to such a degree that he desired to let his fellow musicians know about it. With the same flair for organizing that has produced a number of bands and orchestras during his working life, he organized the Albatross club with such artists as Paul Whiteman, Gene Austin and Franklin Baur. He keeps his own plane ready for duty at all times, even when he is at his apartment here during the winter.

Andy's training for what has turned out to be his career began when he was seven, in Brooklyn, where he was born, and where his mother still lives and listens in regularly. Oddly enough, though, he was given instruction in the violin. Church and school orchestra absorbed some of his abundant energy until the war came, in 1917, and he enlisted in the army. He was under age, of course, and his mother pulled strings to secure his discharge on this count. Undiscounted Andy immediately joined the navy, and his mother finally resigned herself to the inevitability of his seeing some sort of service.

Three years, most of the time abroad submarines, gave Andy enough raw, rough human experience and knowledge of human nature, and when his enlistment expired in Panama City, Panama, he elected to stay there and accept a berth as violinist on a hotel orchestra.

A saxophone seen by him in a shop window proved strangely attractive, and he paid $25 for it. A week later his employer offered him $50 to throw it away after hearing it for the first time. His interest was so thoroughly aroused that he stuck, teaching himself by practice on lonely beaches, that when he played at the next fiesta his success was huge. In this connection, he it observed, he taught himself to play everything but his first love, the violin.

In 1922 the youngster came to New York, was "discovered" Paul Whiteman, learned from the giant maestro of jazz and finally graduated into the phonograph recording and radio fields when his reputation spread from fellow musicians to the public. That career has certainly been vital to a degree, but one activity has been forgotten. Andy's 19-year-old brother is one of thousands learning the saxophone by the "Sannella Method." What a man!

"Liberation Of The Highways"

Fred M. Ervin

Candidate For

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Xenia, Ohio

Voters Of Greene County:

I am addressing this open letter to you to state my reasons for asking your support at the polls next Tuesday.

QUALIFICATIONS—

I am a graduate of Muskingum College with the A. B. degree. I am acquainted with school problems, having taught in Springfield High School. I am cognizant of present day farm, labor and business needs, having been closely connected with the grain business in this county for ten years.

PLATFORM—

I am opposed to Public Utility regulation of motor vehicles. The tax payers (mostly farmers) have built the superior highways of this state. The State then has confiscated these same roads and resold them to a few privileged operators (the certificated haulers) who ONLY are permitted to use them for hire. The results are a monopoly which will cost the public increased trucking rates.

I favor gas tax only on motor vehicles, as the only equitable and fair means of just taxation for road expenditures.

I favor legislation designed for the good of the majority as opposed to that which is framed only for the selfish, private interests.

I am opposed to lobbying because it gives an immense advantage to these same selfish interests who are the highly organized minority working against the good of the majority.

PLEDGES—

In order to maintain an effective contact with the electors I will devote Saturdays during sessions to any who might wish to consult about pending or possible legislation.

I pledge myself to vote for the good of the majority, as opposed to the organized minority of selfish interests, on every proposed piece of legislation.

Vote for LEGISLATION OF THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE, AND BY A REPRESENTATIVE KEENLY ALIVE TO THE PEOPLE'S NEEDS by marking an X opposite my name.

Thank You,

Fred M. Ervin

DROUGHT TAKES TOLL IN CORN BELT

CHINESE SITUATION ALARMING

CONCERTED ACTION PLANNED; BRITISH WILL SEND CRUISER

Communists Center
Around Cities In New
Advance

LONDON, Aug. 9. — The British cruiser Berwick was rushing toward Hankow at full speed today, evening newspapers here reported. It proceeded yesterday from Weihaiwei.

LONDON, Aug. 9. — The British, American, French, and Japanese governments are actively discussing steps for concerted naval action for protection of foreign lives and property on the Yangtze river in case the Nanking government becomes powerless, the Daily Telegraph revealed today.

Gunboats of the several powers already are on hand in the disturbed Chinese zone watching Communist developments. Concerned over the gravity of the crisis, it is probable that the various governments will seek to reach a plan for common military and naval action should extreme measures be deemed necessary on the Yangtze.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 9. — Communist activity in the Yangtze Valley today centered around the cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Han-yang, all of them swarming with refugee Chinese and foreign residents who were driven in by the sweeping advance of Red forces.

The warships of three foreign powers were prepared to deal with emergencies as the capture of Hankow appeared inevitable with approach of overwhelming Communist forces, who already have sacked the city of Changsha.

Hankow defense garrisons were considerably weakened by mutiny of several groups, who were speedily disarmed by loyal troops. A Red plot to gain control of the Hankow light and power works and plunge the vicinity into darkness also was frustrated by alert authorities, who arrested the plotters.

The American National City Bank was served a Communist notice that unless $62,500 was paid the Red armies would invade the city.

The Nanking government, claiming military successes against the Communist in various parts of the Yangtze Valley and a stronger hold upon the threatened Hankow region, charged in an official statement that the northern rebels and the Reds are in collusion negotiating for a crushing joint drive against the Nationalist forces.

SUITOR KILLS GIRL AND SHOOTS SELF; PACT IS SUSPECTED

Slayer Expected To Die;
Has Wife And Child
Living

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Aug. 9. —The killing yesterday of Miss Margaret Limerick, 20, attractive waitress in a boarding house, by her married suitor, Earl Turner, 42, of Philadelphia, who turned the pistol upon himself, might have been prompted by a suicide pact, police admitted today.

Turner, in a dying condition at a local hospital with two bullet wounds in the head but conscious, told police both he and Miss Limerick "were tired of living."

The girl, whose aunt conducts the boarding house where she worked and Turner lived, knew Turner is believed to have a wife and child living in Philadelphia, and refused to marry him.

She was found shot to death in Turner's automobile parked near the city. He was lying in the road nearby. Several letters Miss Limerick wrote to Turner were found in the machine. They referred to the fact that he is married and suggested he seek a divorce.

Turner did not know today Miss Limerick is dead and he asked that nurses ask her to "forgive him," he remarks continually that he is sorry he did not die.

ISLAND SWALLOWED BY SEA OFF MALAY

LONDON, Aug. 9. —The island of Amak Krakatau, Malay Archipelago, was swallowed by the sea following violent volcanic activity, according to reports today in evening newspapers.

The vanished land was uninhabited, a speck among many on the thickly-dotted ocean map of the region.

WIFE BOMBER ASKS FOR SPEEDY EXECUTION

DETROIT GRAND JURY WILL PROBE CARNIVAL OF UNDERWORLD CRIME

Judges Authorize Investigating Body Of Twenty-Three

DETROIT, Aug. 9. —Crime in Detroit and the carnival of underworld slayings which was climaxed by the murder of Gerald E. Buckley, 37, crime-crushing radio announcer, will be put under the microscope of a twenty-three-man grand jury, it was officially decided today when five judges of the circuit court signed an order setting up such an investigating body.

A panel of 150 names was immediately drawn and the task of selecting the jury will begin Monday.

Prosecutor James E. Chenot issued a statement saying that he did not know what Police Commissioner Thomas Wilcox had meant when he said he knew the six slayers of Buckley, who was "put on the spot" in the lobby of the La Salle Hotel last election night.

Chenot said, "The slayers are not known until they are captured and convicted."

Chenot criticized the police department because five of the alleged slayers were still at large. His statement indicated a split among authorities.

Angelo Livecchi, alleged St. Louis racketeer, is the only one of the six who is in custody. He is being held without bond on a murder charge.

Ten gangland slayings occurred in a two-week period prior to the Buckley slaying. At least a score of others have been recorded this year.

DEATH AGAIN HOLDS UP STEEL MERGER

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 9. —Postponement of the trial of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube-Bethlehem Steel merger suit, was announced today following the death, late yesterday, of Myron C. Wick, Jr., co-plaintiff in the effort to halt the merger.

Wick died of pneumonia in Youngstown Hospital after a week's illness.

Announcement of the postponement of the trial until after the funeral of Wick, was made by Judge David G. Jenkins, who is hearing the case in Mahoning County common pleas court, after consulting with the lawyers of both sides. The time for the funeral service has not been set.

Wick is the second central figure in the famous merger suit to die since the trial began almost seven weeks ago. The trial was halted six weeks ago yesterday by the suicide of Leroy A. Manchester, chief counsel for Sheet and Tube.

THAT'S ALL RIGHT

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9. —Despite a fall from a three-story window, little 18-month-old Jessie Bema Bean is very much alive, both physically and mentally today.

Losing her balance while playing in a window on the third story of her home here, little Jessie tumbled to a concrete sidewalk below. And all she seems to have suffered, physicians say, was a bump on the head and a cut tongue.

MILITIA SENT TO KEEP PEACE AFTER RIOTS

Two Companies Patrol
Negro Section In
Marion, Ind.

MARION, Ind., Aug. 9. —Two companies of the Indiana National Guard detained here shortly after dawn today and were immediately placed on duty patrolling the Negro quarters of the city.

The troops were rushed to Marion to prevent a possible recurrence of the mob violence which on Thursday night resulted in the lynching of two Negroes accused of attacking a white girl and murdering her escort.

The arrival of the guardsmen gave the town a warlike aspect as the khaki-clad columns marched from their special train to quarters assigned to them in the civic hall. Details were immediately posted in the more dangerous areas.

The soldiers, members of Company I, of South Bend, commanded by Captain Robert F. Durbin, and Company K, of Fort Wayne, under the command of Captain John F. Houck, had been at Camp Knox, Ky., for their summer encampment. They were taken in trucks to Louisville, and there boarded a train for Marion.

PLANE KILLS ONE

LONDON, Aug. 9. —One passenger was killed and five persons were injured today when an Italian seaplane flying between Trieste and Zara crashed into the sea.

The cause of the mishap was not immediately determined.

Murder charges have been preferred against A. D. Payne, Amarillo, Tex., attorney, shown lower left, following a confession to police that he placed three sticks of dynamite in his automobile, the resulting explosion being credited with the killing of his wife, above, and the maiming of his son, nine.

Payne, held in jail at Stinnett, Tex., because of fear of mob violence, is said by police to have evolved the plot because of his love for Mrs. Verona Thompson, lower center, his former secretary. Photos show, top, the wrecked car after the explosion, and below, the Payne children, A. D., Jr., La Dell, and Bobbie Jean. Payne has requested that he be hurried to the electric chair.

KILLED BY BANDITS WHILE RESISTING ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Restaurant Man Slain As
Gunmen Loot Cash
Register

MARION, O., Aug. 9. —Shot and fatally wounded when he attempted to resist three unmasked bandits who entered his restaurant in the heart of the business district here last night and robbed his cash drawer, Amos Schultz, 55, is dead here today and authorities are searching for his three slayers who escaped in a delapidated coupe.

Schultz, who was preparing to close his eating place for the night, was shot close to the heart when he reached for a pop bottle while two of the men rifled the cash drawer. Only one shot was fired. The bandit who did the firing evidently thought Schultz was reaching for a gun.

When the hold-up men entered the restaurant, Schultz and Elmer Cornwell, 60, a porter, were alone. But Jack Albert, who had been sitting in front of his garage across the street, was forced to accompany the bandits into the restaurant to prevent him spreading any alarm.

The three men were forced to back up against the wall while one of the thugs kept them covered and the other went through the cash register. The loot taken from the register by the robbers aggregated about $250.

FIVE OVERCOME

STUEBENVILLE, O., Aug. 9. —Five workers in the Rice mine at Bergholz, near here, were partially overcome by gas fumes which were caused by a fire in the pit this morning. The men were resuscitated by members of the rescue crew.

The note, the second of its kind to enter into the case of the child's disappearance, was received yesterday on a postcard by Marion Graven of Wooster, Wayne County prosecutor. The note read:

"If you will get driver of roadster license No. 381,418, you will have right one for the Horst boy absent. Brown roadster. When you take him in charge I will tell you of it." It was signed "One Who Knows."

William E. Cooper of Akron, the owner of the automobile with the license number mentioned in the note, when taken into custody by police, disclaimed any knowledge of the child's disappearance, it was said.

A similar note to the one received yesterday, was sent to an Orrville editor more than a year ago. It caused considerable excitement but failed to prove of any value in the search for the missing boy, according to police.

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT IN SENATE CONTEST FEATURES PRIMARY

Only Race Doubtful In
Both Parties Leaders
Believe

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 9. —On the eve of Ohio's primary election, which is to be held next Tuesday, the contest for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator appeared today to be the only political race which is in doubt.

Belief that the outcome of this contest rests between W. W. Durbin of Kenton, former chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, and former Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland attorney and "wet" candidate, is held by a number of Buckeye state political writers.

Other aspirants for this nomination are: Charles V. Truax, of Bucyrus, former state secretary of agriculture; former Congressman John McSweeney, of Wooster, and former State Representative George S. Myers, of Cleveland.

Of the Republican candidates, Governor Myers V. Cooper, Lieutenant Governor John T. Brown, Attorney General Gilbert S. Bettman and State Supreme Judges Reynolds R. Kinkade and James E. Robinson, all seeking renomination, are unopposed. United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch, who desires to retain his present senatorial term, has no opposition in the G. O. P. primary.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown is expected to defeat Edward J. Hummel, of Cincinnati, and win a third-term nomination. State Treasurer H. Ross Ake, likewise, is expected to outrun former State Treasurer Harry S. Day and Mrs. Pauline Buckley, wife of former State Treasurer B. B. Buckley, in the race for the nomination for state treasurer. (Full term.)

Edwin A. Todd, now assistant state treasurer, has no opposition for the G. O. P. nomination for the short term as state treasurer.

Among the candidates for positions on the Democratic state ticket, former State Librarian J. H. Newman, now candidate for secretary of state, is the only one who has no opposition. There is no Democratic candidate for the short term for state treasurer.

Of the other Democratic contests, political writers expect the following nominations: for governor, former Congressman George White, of Marietta; for lieutenant governor, former Lieutenant Governor William G. Pickrel, of Dayton; for state treasurer, W. V. Coshorn, of Gallon, former clerk of the Ohio

Suspect Arrested But
Denies Part In Ab-
duction

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 9. —Investigation of a mysterious, anonymous note which may lead to the solution of six-year-old Melvin Horst's disappearance of more than eighteen months ago, was being conducted by police officials here today.

The note, the second of its kind to enter into the case of the child's disappearance, was received yesterday on a postcard by Marion Graven of Wooster, Wayne County prosecutor. The note read:

"If you will get driver of roadster license No. 381,418, you will have right one for the Horst boy absent. Brown roadster. When you take him in charge I will tell you of it." It was signed "One Who Knows."

William E. Cooper of Akron, the owner of the automobile with the license number mentioned in the note, when taken into custody by police, disclaimed any knowledge of the child's disappearance, it was said.

ELABORATE RADIO FACILITIES FOR HOTEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. —One hundred ninety miles of wire, approximately 1,000,000 feet, is being used in the radio installation system, the most elaborate and largest in the country, in the new Waldorf-Astoria Hotel which is now under construction here.

Details of the system revealed today by the Western Electric Co., include:

Three antennae, a trio of strands diameter, practically invisible from the street 600 feet below.

A radio loud speaker with a program selector in each of the 2,000 private rooms so that a guest may tune in on any of six radio broadcasts at any time.

Facilities for each guest to tune in his radio on the events in the public rooms of the hotel, such as conventions, banquets, dances or the orchestra programs in the dining rooms.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN TRAPPED BY SLIDE

Tons Of Dirt Entombed Workmen In Ore Mine;
Sixteen Injured Of Whom Three May Die;
Accident Is Probed

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 9. —Having been buried under tons of dirt and other debris, when a top rock at the Gilbert Colliery of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Co., ten miles from here, became loose and fell about fifty feet, seven men are dead today and sixteen are injured.

Three of the injured men were said to be in a serious condition at a hospital.

The accident occurred about 1900 feet underground on the third level. The men were placing new rails in the slope when the rock slipped and fell.

Officials of the company said the slope had been inspected Thursday and that no signs of any loose dirt or rock was found.

BELIEVE AGED PAIR MISSING SINCE MAY ROBBED AND KILLED

Swamp Pool May Hold
Secret Of Strange
Disappearance

STOW, Mass., Aug. 9. —That the dark depths of a pool on Cedar Swamp holds the secret of the disappearance of an aged farmer and his wife, much in the same manner as the mysterious vanishing of the first owner of the farm, seventy years ago, was the belief today of investigators who are searching for the bodies of William Stefanovich, and his wife Stacia.

The couple, both about 65 years of age, has not been seen since May.

Investigators saw a similarity in their disappearance to that of "Tiger" Hale, a former owner of the farm known as the "old George Hale" farm who was believed slain, robbed of $4,000 and his body thrown into the deep pool, its sides and bottom covered with quick sands.

Today, state, local and Hudson police continued the search for the aged couple, after a report that Stefanovich and his wife had gone to Chicago for treatment for a "stomach ailment" was proved untrue by word from Chicago that no Massachusetts couple had gone there for treatment in the past two months.

Meanwhile, a widespread search was under way for a man known as Joseph Stefanovsky, farm manager hired to operate the farm for the couple, who has not been seen since last Saturday.

JAPANESE VOLCANO SPOUTING CINDERS

TOKIO, Aug. 9. —The Japanese volcano Mount Asama today was spouting forth an incandescent cloud of cinders and ashes, spreading a foreboding smoke pall over Karuizawa, favorite summer resort of Europeans.

The eruption followed a sudden violent explosion and intense rumbling continuing intermittently as many inhabitants around its base feverishly transported all belongings out of the danger zone.

Scores of the 800 foreigners summering there, among them many Americans prepared to leave the vicinity as the disturbance continued.

This is the third and most severe eruption of Asama since last June.

DOWN GOES KELLY

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 9. —Everything that goes up eventually returns to earth, so "shipwreck" Kelly, who has been sitting atop a napoleone here for fifty days, planned to descend this afternoon. The fifty days is a new record, Kelly claimed.

Col. Lindbergh's voice was plainly heard throughout the North American continent but magnetic storms over the Atlantic, the reports said, so interfered with transmission that no attempt was made to rebroadcast the address in England, Australia and Germany.

The colonel's voice was heard in London studios, where it was to have been rebroadcast, but many words were so blurred as to be unintelligible and rebroadcasting was abandoned. Many in Germany, however, heard the address, as it had been cabled and was rebroadcast in German.

The colonel's special broadcast of his speech over the short wave for foreign stations only, which was made yesterday afternoon, also was greatly interfered with and faded no better than his night talk as far as foreign reception was concerned.

reports from abroad today showed the broadcast was a complete failure.

Col. Lindbergh's voice was plainly heard throughout the North American continent but magnetic storms over the Atlantic, the reports said, so interfered with transmission that no attempt was made to rebroadcast the address in England, Australia and Germany.

The colonel's special broadcast of his speech over the short wave for foreign stations only, which was made yesterday afternoon, also was greatly interfered with and faded no better than his night talk as far as foreign reception was concerned.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF NEEDED TO SALVAGE EVEN HALF OF CROP

Livestock Is Also In Danger Result Of Rain
Shortage

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. —Immediate relief will be necessary if farmers of the middle west are to salvage even 50 per cent of their corn crop from the drought, reports indicated here today.

The intense heat and lack of anything near a normal rainfall already have taken their greatest toll in years throughout the corn belt, farmers reported, and this damage will continue to mount rapidly if copious rain is not available within the next few hours.

Reports from Kansas said farmers there hoped to salvage barely enough corn for feeding purposes, while those in areas worst affected were considering the necessity of turning to wheat for livestock food. Missouri, Nebraska, Iowa and the Dakotas, also saw little hope for immediate relief and farmers in those states already have lost from one-third to half of their corn crops.

Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, in addition to corn crop damage, reported serious danger to livestock because of the water shortage in many sections.

The grain market, reflecting the effects of the drought, was expected to recover today from its sharp decline of yesterday. Weather reports from 213 reporting stations during the past five days showed that only sixteen had received an inch or more of rain in that period.

Professional traders were looking to the government's monthly report, due next Monday, which is expected to be bullish. This report, however, will not be infallible as considerable deterioration has resulted since it was compiled.

Basing their opinion on the manner in which farmers have sold old cash corn to arrive in the past three days, Chicago receivers were convinced plenty of grain would be available despite the drought. Purchases were estimated from 750,000 bushels upward.

POLICE TRACE BOMB SENDER; INFERNAL MACHINE FAILURE

Woman Has Narrow
Escape From Death
By Bombing

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9. —Police today were attempting to discover the source of a "mouse trap" bomb which was sent through the mail to Mrs. Catherine Breunig but which failed to function when the package containing it was opened.

The infernal machine, which turned out to be a dud and which was preceded by a letter to Mrs. Breunig telling her to expect a package which she must open herself and by no means show her husband, was unwrapped out of curiosity by Mrs. Elmer Littlekan. Mrs. Breunig's sister, Mrs. Breunig had treated the letter and the package as a joke.

The amateur infernal machine consisted of a tiny cedar chest of the variety used frequently as candy boxes, containing a small bottle of nitro-glycerine, two torpedoes, with a fuse leading from them to the nitro glycerine and a large mouse trap attached to the top of the box. When the box was opened the torpedoes exploded frightening the two women but the deadly nitro-glycerine charge was not set off.

Police arrested George W. Masserang, of East St. Louis, Mrs. Breunig's first husband, but refused to comment on the arrest.

Mrs. Breunig said that she recognized the handwriting in the letter which preceded the bomb as that of a man she had known some time before.

YOUTH HELD FOR KILLING OFFICER

BOSTON, Aug. 9. —Held without bail in the murder last Sunday night of Patrolman Joseph P. O'Brien, of Brookline, Thomas C. Healy, Pittsburgh youth, was in Dedham jail today while police search continued for Paul Hurley, who, the prosecution contends, fired the fatal shot.

It was Healy's statements here and in New York where he was arrested, that resulted in his being held for the grand jury of Norfolk County. Judge Philip S. Parker in Brookline Court held that as long as it could be shown that Healy was present when the shooting was done it was sufficient for finding probable cause.

The public fund for the slain patrolman's wife and four year old daughter today reached a total of $2,756.

Lyon, executive secretary, Saturday. Miss Lyon, Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse and Miss Mary Smith, city health nurse, were in charge of the station.

Two men from Springfield, Check McFarland and Jack Titus, appearing in a boxing exhibition at the fair, were given first aid treatment for a split arch in the right foot and a split thumb, respectively. Three men, employed on the grounds were treated for injured hands, received in their work, according to Miss Lyon's report.

JOHN M'SWEENEY IS VISITOR FRIDAY ON CAMPAIGN JOURNEY

John McSweeney, of Wooster, Democratic candidate for the United States Senator nomination, was in Xenia Friday afternoon in the interest of his campaign. McSweeney was enroute from Columbus to Cincinnati where he was to deliver his final pre-primary speech. McSweeney was making his final campaign swing through this part of the state. He has traveled more than 13,000 miles in the past three months, making a personal campaign in each town he went through.

The Wooster man is well known to ex-service men of the 147th Infantry here. During the World War he served as a lieutenant and captain of Co. I and of the Machine Gun Company of the 147th Infantry. He was later made aide-de-camp of General Charles S. Farnsworth. Following the war McSweeney came back to Wooster and served three terms in Congress from the Sixteenth District. At present he is an attorney, practicing law in Wooster where both his father and grandfather were prominent lawyers.

Star Gazing BY RADIE HARRIS

By Central Press

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., August 8.—In Hollywood, the land of the rave and the home of the spree, from where more rumors emanate than movie stars, Janet Gaynor is the topical conversation of the hour. Everywhere one goes, one hears Mother Grundy's tongue working overtime with reports of the great battle now being waged between Janet and her mentors, the Fox Film Co.

Ever since my arrival in Hollywood, I have heard nothing but brickbats hurled miscellaneously at Mrs. Gaynor's little girl. . . she is holding out for $9,000 a week. . . she asks for complete supervision of her stories. . . she claims she can get $250,000 a picture. . . she seems to forget that she owes her presence exalted position to Fox. . . she is unappreciative, temperamental, unmanageable. . . ugly comments without even the semblance of truth!

LIVES IN SECLUSION. With all these rumors gaining momentum daily, Janet herself, remains in blissful seclusion at her little beach bungalow on the sands of Playa Del Rey. Taking advantage of our long standing friendship, it was there that I visited her one day last week.

My visit to Janet was not for the purpose of an interview, and yet, as inevitably during the course of conversation we drifted into a discussion of her contractual difficulties, I couldn't help but feel that I wouldn't be playing fair to my readers (all of whom are rabid Janet Gaynor fans) if I didn't counteract a great deal of unfair publicity to which she has been subjected by giving you HER side of the story.

"I have no axe to grind with Fox," she began as she curled up in a couch. "I owe everything to them for giving me my golden opportunity in 'Seventh Heaven,' and despite all reports to the contrary, I have never lost sight of that fact. My one and only grievance and the reason that I haven't been near the studio in six months is 'High Society Blues.'"

"All during the making of that picture, I was utterly miserable. I was playing a part that was entirely unsuitable—a role that anyone just starting in pictures could have played much better. "I only made 'Sunny Side Up' as an experience. I wanted my next picture to be a dramatic portrayal—not another musical. After making 'High Society Blues' against my better judgment, I was not only ill physically (I went down to ninety lbs.) but also so mentally distraught that I felt as if I never wanted to make another picture again."

"If I were the sort of person who could play in any picture as long as I received my salary check each week and it was a box-office success, I would have no cause for complaint."

SATISFIED WITH SALARY. "All I am asking of Fox now is to grant me the privilege of having a completed manuscript before I start a picture. In this way I will know the role I am to play without plunging into it in the dark. I am not making an increased salary demand, asking for supervision of story and cast or any of the other unreasonable and absurd requests accorded to me. And now, Radie, you have the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Cross my heart and hope to die!" Because Janet was sweet enough to give me such an exclusive story I am passing it on to you, her fans. How do you feel about it? Do you think Janet is right in her determination to remain off the screen until she and Fox can come to terms about a proper vehicle for her unusual talents. Remember, it is you fans who have made her the Queen of Screenland. It is up to you to see that she doesn't lose her royal crown.

Let's hear what you have to say. Write me your opinion, care Miss Radie Harris, Hotel Roosevelt, Hollywood, Cal.

DEMOCRATIC FIGHT IN SENATE CONTEST FEATURES PRIMARY

senate; for attorney general, M. Ray Allison of Columbus; for state supreme judge, Coleman Avery, Cincinnati, and Charles H. Hubbell, of Cleveland.

Other selections to be made at Tuesday's primary include nominees for congress, state senators, state representatives, appellate judges, members of state central committees, common pleas judges, county commissioners, county auditors, prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, county recorders, county treasurers, coroners, and members of county central committees.

Arrangements for broadcasting the election returns next Tuesday night over stations WAHU, Columbus, and WLW, Cincinnati, have been made by Secretary of State Brown. These returns will be put on the air direct from Brown's offices in the statehouse. Special wires will link the secretary of state's offices with the radio stations.

Beginning at 6:45 p. m., eastern standard time, the election news will be broadcast during the fifteen-minute periods which, for the greater part of the night, will be approximately forty-five minutes apart. Unless some close contests develop, the final broadcast will end at 1:45 a. m. Otherwise, broadcasts will continue throughout the night and during the following day. Effort is being made to have United States Senator Simeon D. Pess, who was recently chosen as chairman of the Republican national committee, act as chairman and deliver the keynote address at the G. O. P. state platform convention here shortly after the primary election.

Another proposal is that Charles R. Frederickson, Coshocton manufacturer, manage the Ohio Republican campaign this fall. Frederickson was G. O. P. state campaign manager during the fall of 1926 when former Governor Vic Donahey defeated Governor Cooper as the Republican gubernatorial nominee.

XENIANS HURT WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Fisher, 403 N. King St., received scratches and bruises but escaped serious injury when a rear tire blow-out caused the auto in which they were riding to upset in a corn field off the Springfield Pike, opposite the lane leading to the Xenia Fish Hatchery, about 5:30 p. m. Friday. A further examination is expected to reveal the extent of injuries received by Mrs. Fisher, whose right arm was painfully hurt.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher were driving to their cottage north of Old Town when the blow-out occurred, causing the machine to get out of Mr. Fisher's control. It swerved across the highway and overturned. It is believed that a possible defect in the mechanism of the steering wheel may have also been a contributing factor to the accident.

B. F. Thomas Has Made Good Recorder

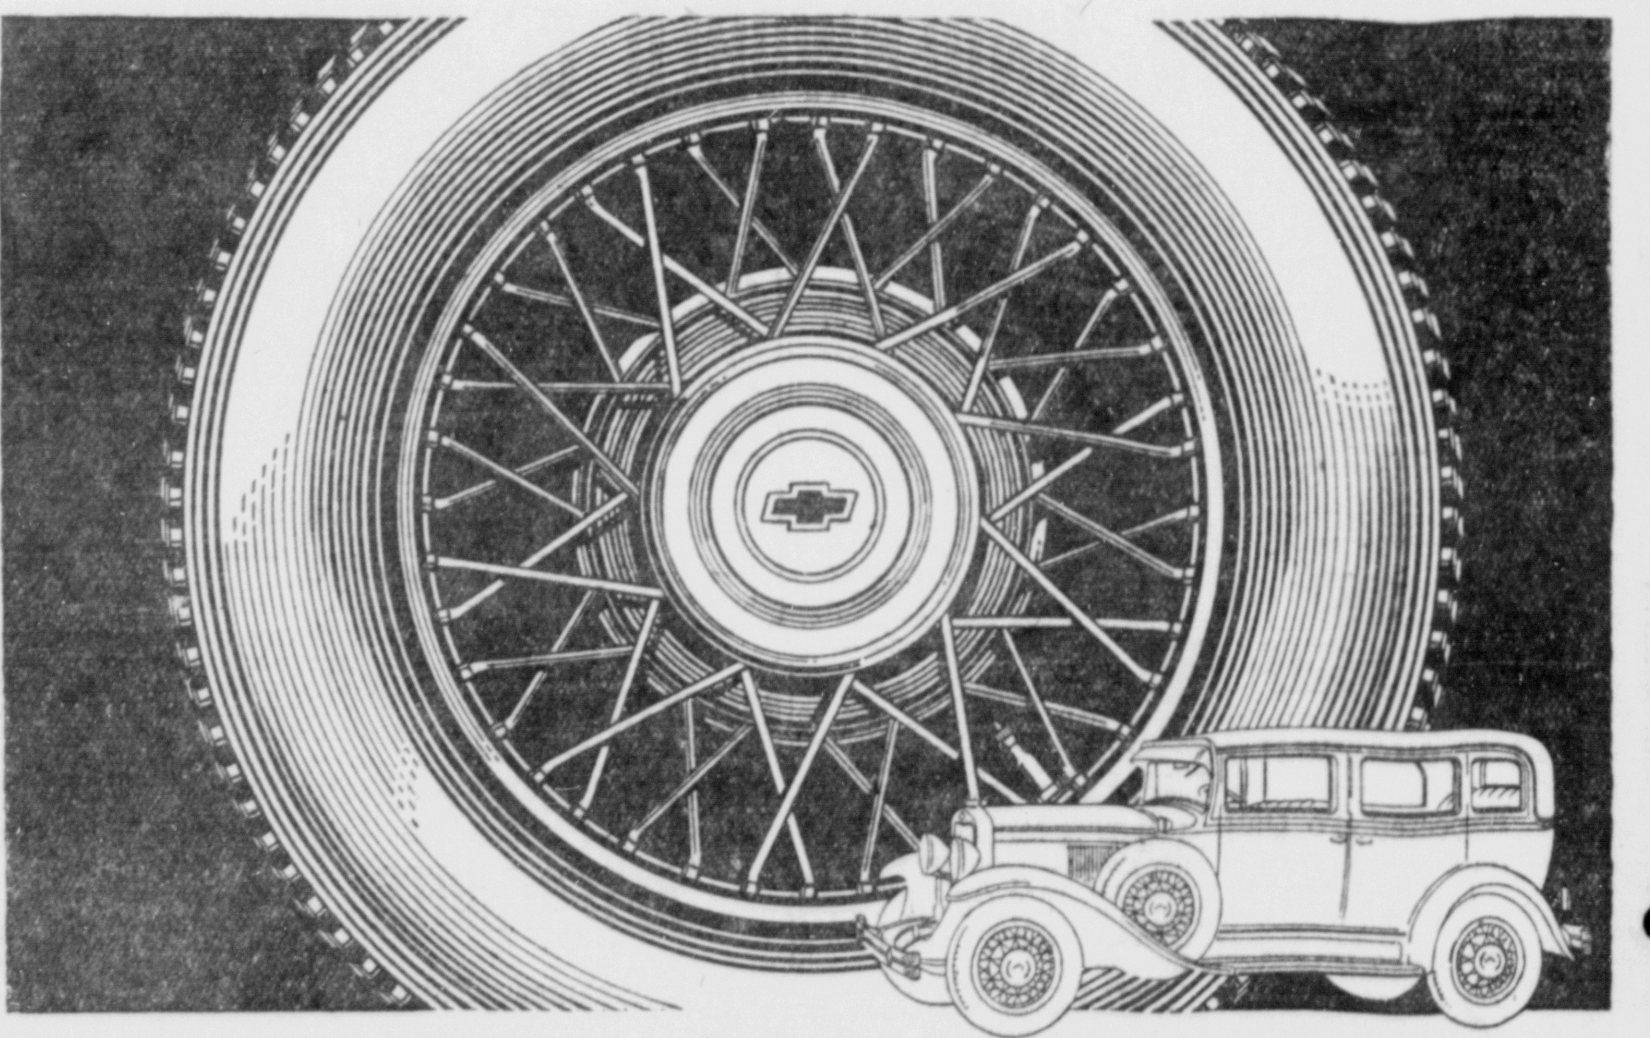

From the many remarks heard from the people of Greene County, we assume that our present Recorder, B. F. Thomas, has made a good officer. Everyone has a kind word for his courteous manner and pleasing personality. The recorder's office is one of the most important in the Court House and one where much of the county's business is handled. Experience and capability count most in the detailed duties of this office and Mr. Thomas has proved his ability in his years of experience. B. F. Thomas, who is asking for re-nomination to the office of Recorder on the Republican ticket did not require to be elected to this office to obtain the asset of courtesy as he is known the county over as the man who tries to accommodate all with whom he comes in contact. He has always been a "live wire" and never a slacker in politics. Furthermore, he has always stood ready to assist everyone whether they are for him or not. Mr. Thomas is asking for the support of the voters at the Primary on August 12, and only asks what he thinks he deserves acknowledgment of service well rendered. —Political Adv.

ATTEMPT TO OBTAIN FREEDOM ON HABEAS CORPUS IS FAILURE

Andrew Kender, Dayton, recently committed to the County Jail to serve out fines of $50 and costs and $100 and costs, imposed by A. E. Longstrech, Bath Twp. justice of the peace, on charges of illegally seining fish and resisting arrest, failed to gain his release from jail Saturday morning when Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy denied him a writ of habeas corpus, following a court hearing on his application.

Kender was represented by Attorney John Hoover, Dayton, who argued that his client was denied the right of a jury trial by the magistrate. The contention was also made that some of the necessary legal procedure was omitted in the prosecution of Kender's case.

For instance, he said, the affidavit failed to stipulate Kender was more than sixteen years of age. He added, however, there was no need to debate this point. Pointing to his client, who is about 54, he observed that it was too hot to talk at great length anyway.

The court denied the writ, declaring the conservation laws do not provide for the necessity of granting a jury trial upon demand. Kender was remanded to jail.

ENDURANCE FLYERS ON "HOME STRETCH"

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 9.—Working on the theory that the first hundred years are the longest Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, endurance flyers who are attempting to set a new world record were expected to find their final hundred hours, into which they zoomed this morning, the shortest.

At 7:11 the cloud-clinging "Great St. Louis" had been cruising the sky paths for 456 hours or nineteen days. Less than 100 hours remained until the two veteran flyers should have revenge upon the Hunter brothers who recently broke the record Jackson and O'Brien set in the "St. Louis Robin" by remaining above Chicago for more than 553 hours.

BANDITS GET BIG PAYROLL

DAYTON, O., Aug. 9.—Two daring desperados seized a $12,000 payroll here today and headed away to at least temporary safety. The victim was Francis Minnigan, superintendent of the H. R. Blagg Construction Co., which is building a new building for the Bell Telephone Co., in Dayton.

With a chauffeur, Minnigan stopped for a traffic light at the edge of the downtown business section. Drawing pistols, two youthful bandits jumped on the running boards of Minnigan's automobile, grabbed the payroll sack and dashed away in their own car just as the traffic light changed.

Minnigan was unsuccessful in attempting to follow the robbers.

Police Chief O. H. Cornwell also appointed Charles Ford and Harlan Stevens to serve as extra patrolmen, assigned to night duty in the north end of the city, during the week, on account of the fair. Wilkins was formerly a patrolman and night chief for a number of years and Ford and Stevens also had prior experience on the department.

MORE GOLD STAR MOTHERS SAIL

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—A contingent of 176 gold star mothers sailed for France today to place a wreath on the graves of their sons who died in the World War.

At 7:00 o'clock this morning they were called for breakfast. At 9:00 they were taken in buses from the Hotel Astor, in the heart of Broadway, where they stopped, to the piers. Every detail of the trip has been arranged by the United States army officers who have already sent more than 1,000 gold star mothers on pilgrimages to France.

Promptly at noon the United States liner President Roosevelt carried them out into the cool waters of the Atlantic.

Just twelve years ago the sons of these same mothers sailed for France also. But in those dark days of 1918 the ships crept out of the harbor in the thick of night.

These mothers sailing today try not to let the memories of the days "over there" crowd back too quickly. There will be lots of time for remembering.

NATIONAL GRANGE MASTER WILL SPEAK AT GRANGE OUTING

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, will be the principal speaker on the program to be held in conjunction with the annual picnic and outing of Greene County Granges to be held at the Greene County Fairgrounds, Thursday, August 14. Other details of the program are not yet complete according to S. H. Shawhan, deputy master of Greene County.

Mr. Taber, whose home is in Columbus, spent the past year in Washington, D. C., and his speech will deal authoritatively with farm legislative matters. All farmers of Greene County and other interested persons are invited to attend the picnic and hear Mr. Taber's address. The picnic is being sponsored by Greene County Pomona Grange and dinner will be served at 12:30 p. m.

DUCHESS OF YORK IN GOOD HEALTH

GLAMIS SCOTLAND, Aug. 9.—Cheered by reports of the duchess of York's fine health, Britain today continued in an attitude of hopeful waiting as the birth of the second child of the York family was hourly expected.

In case the new member of the British royal family should be a boy, national rejoicing would inevitably follow, as in that case the empire would have an "heir presumptive."

As an illustration of the evils of special privilege lobbying Mr. Ervin cites the trucking bill, lobbied through the Ohio Legislature by the Ohio Commercial Haulers (the organization of certain haulers) who boasted of a $25,000 expenditure to put the bill across. This bill forbids the use of privately owned trucks or vehicles for any hire, with penalties of from $25 to $1000 for violations. This bill subjects any farmer to fine for delivering a peck of potatoes, a chicken or any other article, for any relative or neighbor, if any compensation is in any way involved. Mr. Ervin states that he was sitting in a public utility hearing when fifteen farmers were ordered to "cease and desist immediately" from hauling even a load of live stock for their neighbors for "hire" and the "hire" was interpreted to mean "anything of value." A day's labor given to the neighbor in exchange for the trucking accommodation was interpreted as "hire." Although the farmer is the one who has paid the most for the road he is not allowed to haul even the smallest article over it for "hire." Only organized truckers, who have probably not paid one cent of construction cost on the road are privileged to realize any money returns on the use of it.

It is such manifestly unfair legislation that Mr. Ervin is pledged to combat if elected to office.

Mr. Ervin also believes there should be closer contact between the legislator and his constituency and if elected will set aside a day each week to meet with any who wish to discuss any pending or possible legislation.

Consistent service, in which every proposed bit of legislation will be carefully weighed with the good of the majority always the only consideration, is pledged to the voters by Mr. Ervin.

FORMER SOLON MUST FACE LIQUOR TRIAL

BALTIMORE, Aug. 9.—Manuel Herrick, former Republican congressman from Oklahoma, who was caught, prohibition agents said, attending a still in a secluded section of St. Mary's County, Md., will have to stand trial in federal court just like any other alleged moonshiner, J. L. Acuff, chief of the division of special agents, said today.

Some observers had believed the case might be handled differently as Herrick has on file with the prohibition bureau in Washington, an application for appointment as an under-cover agent. In his talks with officials there he said he could give them an abundance of evidence about moonshining in lower Maryland.

Herrick is held in jail in default of bail.

NAVY PEEVED OVER COOLIDGE REMARKS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The navy department today took exception to Calvin Coolidge's comment on airplane motors in which he wrote:

"A naval officer reports that the best engine is made abroad. That is disconcerting. With the resources now available, the science of construction and the art of safe navigation ought to command the most intensive research by both governmental and private agencies. We cannot afford any second place."

Acting Secretary of the Navy Johnnie said he believes the navy "is regarded as largely responsible for the creation and success of the air-cooled engine which made Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris possible, together with the tremendous advances in aviation that followed. "These engines are without superiors anywhere in the world and are produced in quantities by several American aircraft engine manufacturing concerns," Johnnie said.

LUNDGREN MAY TAKE OFF NEXT WEEK, SAID

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Ted Lundgren, California aviator, may take off early next week on his attempt to lower the Graf Zeppelin's time of twenty-one days for a flight around the world. It was learned today. Passports for Lundgren and two assistants were expected here Monday and it was indicated the take-off would be made within a day or two after their receipt.

The tentative itinerary is by way of Old Orchard, Me., Berlin, Orask, Tokio, Seattle and back to Roosevelt Field.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WAY OF LIFE—Enter ye in at the strait gate, for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it.—Matthew 7:13, 14.

HITCHING POST DAYS

It was not so many years ago, that the space along the sides of streets now allotted in most towns to parking for automobiles, was occupied by long rows of horses and carriages. Provision of a good number of hitching posts was considered a helpful measure for trade. The country people liked to drive into places where they could hitch their horses close to the stores.

The long rows of horses tied to these posts filled up the streets in many towns, but if people complained and wanted the teams hitched elsewhere, the merchants said it interfered with their trade.

The automobiles of today do not have to be hitched, they never run away, but there are so many more of them that they fill the streets fuller than they used to be in the most palmy hitching post days. The driver who takes up more space by his careless parking than he should, or who puts his car in a forbidden space, causes inconvenience and danger to the public. The old hitching post times had their disadvantages, but life on the streets was safer and less anxious then.

LEARNING TO DRIVE

The public has to be tolerant of the inexperience of the many people who are learning to drive automobiles, but it expects them to take all reasonable precautions. As practically everyone in future years will learn to drive cars, these people have to do their practicing, and people will somehow have to get out of their way, but they should not take needless risks.

They should keep off crowded roads and congested town centers until they have acquired some skill. They do not fully realize the power of the machine which their inexperienced hands are guiding. The most important thing for them to remember is to keep their cars under control every minute, so they can stop if they see the least danger of trouble.

YOUTH AND ITS FREEDOM

A friend, having passed a few days ago a high school building in a considerable city around which there were parked about 100 automobiles, remarked on what a change those cars indicated from the old days when the boys and girls walked to school. In the country town where he came from, there was quite a group who walked three miles each way five days in the week. Today, the sons of many of these folks are unable to walk a mile to school and back, and many of them have the free use of the family car to drive to and from school.

The conversation went on to remark on the place of the automobile in these children's lives after school. They are rebellious and discontented unless they have quite free use of the family car. If they want to go to some show or dance in another city, they usually go. Parents may know nothing about the character of the affair, but youth feels perfectly competent to judge.

Then there are the cars parked in shady nooks in some lonely street with scenes of sentiment inside. Many of these young people come through these experiences all right, but some do not. They may be no worse than their parents were at the same age, and they know some dangers of which their parents at the same age were innocently ignorant. But parents naturally tremble about all the temptations of modern life.

It is up to parents in these days of freedom to get very close to their children. Start in early, utilize the age when they feel dependent on you, to teach them obedience. Make yourselves their best loved friend, so they want to please you. When they reach the independent age, explain everything to them, so they know the reasons for your standards.

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHAT SCIENCE CAN'T DO

"It is one thing for science to increase man's control over the forces of nature; it is quite another to make man wise and good."

This is a thoughtful remark by President Bizzell of the University of Oklahoma. Those who look to science and the study of the physical world to solve all human problems forget that the question of spiritual values lies in another field. There are some things that are felt and they are as important as the things that are seen. There are some things that are judged by emotions, but that judgment may be as sound as the judgment by statistics.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

According to the census figures the average marriage rate for 25 states was about 12 to 1,000 persons, compared with 11 in 1928. The divorce rate for the same area dropped a little. The divorce rate was a little less than three to the thousand. The marriage rate for those 25 states was higher in 1930 than any other rate on record. It appears marriage grows a little more popular and divorce a little less so.

A PAYING INVESTMENT

Auer, great violin teacher, passes on at 85. Among his pupils, later famous, were Elman, Zimbalist, Heifetz, Max Rosen. By his great teaching capacity and his knowledge of music Auer changed the lives of thousands. He needs no monument. He goes on living in the lives of others. He invested himself. It paid.

OUT OF THE AIR

The day may come when we will make food and fuel out of the air. Then our raw material will be inexhaustible. The Society of Chemical Industry, meeting in England, hears a Manchester scientist tell of a world in which the great coal deposits will one day be used up. We will learn how to manufacture fuel and food from water, sun, soil, air, by new methods. After all, our national wealth is not to be reckoned altogether in terms of material resources. Our greatest wealth lies in the unending ingenuity—the brains—of men and women.

EXPENSIVE FIGHTING

Man's love of settling his troubles by fighting costs him millions upon millions in tax money. Paying for wars we have already had and preparing for those we may have is costing the United States $2,800,000,000 a year. Of the billions voted for the support of the government, about 70 per cent goes for war-like purposes. And yet loose-mouthed law-makers will rattle on for hours trying to ballyhoo Uncle Sam into having the biggest navy on earth.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 128, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

What do the letters "S O S" stand for?
The International Radiotelegraph conference at London in 1912 selected the letters "S O S" for the radio distress call. The individual letters stand for nothing, but the combination signifies distress by the sender. The combination was chosen because the dots and dashes used were so simple that the most inexperienced radio operator would have no difficulty in detecting it. The call is three dots, three dashes and three dots.

Thunder and Lightning
How far away can lightning and thunder be observed?
Lightning, under favorable conditions, can be seen at least 100 miles away. Thunder seldom is heard more than 20 miles, and usually not over 10 or 15 miles.

Iodine Poisoning
What is the antidote for iodine poisoning?
According to competent authority, the best method of counteracting iodine poisoning is to give the patient a large tea cup of starch, mixed with cold water, to about the thickness of good buttermilk. Then produce vomiting by putting the finger in the throat, or by an emetic.

The Franklin Family
Did Benjamin Franklin have any brothers or sisters?
Benjamin Franklin was the fifteenth child in a family of 17 children, there being both brothers and sisters.

Incubators for Babies
Are incubators used to aid newborn babies to live?
Incubators are used for purpose of rearing babies that are too weak to survive under normal conditions. The first one ever used was constructed under the guidance of Dr. Tarnier, in 1880, and used at the Paris Maternity hospital.

Our Negro Soldiers
Is it true that there are regiments of colored men in our army composed of Negroes?
The United States army has four regiments of colored men. These regiments have been in existence since shortly after the Civil war, and are the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Infantry and the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry.

Radio at Sea
Does the government require all ocean going vessels to carry radio?
All vessels traveling 300 miles or more and carrying 50 passengers or more, are required to be equipped with radios.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK. — Dora Maughn, "of the stage," who just returned from a sojourn abroad and who boasts that she is "only one husband behind Peggy Joyce," recounts a story they're telling in Paris about P. Hopkins J.

Peggy, so the narrative runs, recently met a wealthy South American, a world traveler, who, while in Africa, was bitten by the tsetse fly and in consequence is afflicted with sleeping sickness.

"And they do say in Paris," recounts Dora Maughn, "that every time Peggy asks this gentleman for something, he's snoring!"

QUANDARY

And I suppose you've heard Benny Rubin's story about the little boy who asked his cloak-and-suit papa what "ethics" meant.
"It's like this," said Papa. "Today a man comes in the shop and buys a suit for $20. Just as he's leaving I find he's given me two $20 bills stuck together. Right there comes ethics—should I tell my partner!"

A CLERK AND $35,000
Up to a couple of days ago he had a job as teller in a New York bank. He'd worked there for three years and got $50 a week. He has a wife and two kids. They lived in a little, inconsequential flat, five flights up, a step at a time, in the rear. They had a second hand flivver, a radio that was being bought on time, and that's all. They paid cash at the shops of neighborhood tradesmen — their only bill being a small account with the newspaper dealer.

The other day he entered the bank with a lunch box under his arm, explaining that he and his wife and two kids were going to take a "little outing." He worked late that afternoon and when he left he had $35,000 of the bank's funds stowed away in his "lunch box."

Earlier that day his wife, after paying the paper bill, had hailed a taxi, bundled in her two kids and her personal effects and they were off—joined later by Pop, with the $35,000.

They had sold their car. The radio man had taken the machine away. The only debt they left behind was the small one that Pop had incurred at the bank. He's 28. She's 24. They're very much in love with each other and the kids. The neighbors say they were as supremely happy a little family as ever lived.

Strange as it may seem, there isn't a soul that's laid his head on his arm and wept for the bank.

HOOVER'S CAMPAIGN LINE-UP NOTABLE FOR ITS OHIO COLOR

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—There is a great deal of Ohio in President Hoover's campaign lineup for 1932.

Senator Simeon D. Fess—chosen to succeed Claudius H. Huston as chairman of the G. O. P. national committee—is from Yellow Springs (O.). J. R. Nutt, the committee's treasurer—is from Cleveland (O.).

Postmaster General Walter P. Brown—real boss of the whole organization and presumably slated to take over Senator Fess' chairmanship when the campaign actually begins—is from Toledo.

Politicians are beginning to refer again to "the Ohio gang"—which is hardly fair; the present Buckeye state group is by no means the same one that bulked so largely in President Harding's time. Public men, however, are jealous folk; if they fancy that some particular little coterie has an edge on the remainder, they say mean things.

After all, the most capricious critics recognize a graduate who has passed a good examination in Ohio's political school as among the best in the country—and Walter Brown took a "cum laude" degree.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover was not unkind of it, back in 1927, when he picked Walter as his departmental assistant—and to be his manager, with a view to what-ever might happen to develop in the course of the ensuing year. Quite a lot did develop, as will be recalled—and its outcome would seem to imply that Walter's management was not a bit bad.

Mr. Hoover showed his appreciation of that, too, on becoming president by conferring upon Walter the postmaster generalship, the most political of all cabinet jobs, because of the vast number and wide distribution of appointments at its incumbent's disposal, where-with to gladden the hearts of small office seekers throughout the land—or perchance to raise havoc, if they are injudiciously made.

Nevertheless, there were signs that Walter, having delivered the goods, was not left subsequently, for some time, to run things in just his own way.

Anyhow, rumors circulated of disagreements between Postmaster General Brown and various southern politicians, who had lent aid to the Hoover cause, concerning the dispensing of federal favors in the latter's respective bailiwicks.

For awhile it certainly looked as if the presidential tendency were to side against Postmaster General Brown.

How this situation may have arisen is understandable. Republican strategists, like Walter Brown, have their uses for southern delegates in national conventions; their votes are as serviceable as any other votes in effecting nominations.

Accordingly these strategists, in the past, have aimed to adapt their southern state G. O. P. organization to convention utility, which is decidedly a different matter from adapting them to the piling up of majorities on election days—the off-joined later by Pop, with the $35,000.

They had sold their car. The radio man had taken the machine away. The only debt they left behind was the small one that Pop had incurred at the bank. He's 28. She's 24. They're very much in love with each other and the kids. The neighbors say they were as supremely happy a little family as ever lived.

Strange as it may seem, there isn't a soul that's laid his head on his arm and wept for the bank.

strategists' theory being that the south is Republicanly unpendable, or worse, at the polls.

The last election, however, was an exception—Virginia, North Carolina, Florida and Texas, as we know, having flopped to Mr. Hoover. The question thereupon arose:

Could these Republican footholds in Dixie be consolidated?

If so, it was obvious that Dixie's G. O. P. organizations needed overhauling, improvement, new blood—the replacing of the old type of bosses with aggressive managers of the newer breed; that is, with the Hooverite leaders, who had just won.

President Hoover evidently believed it could be done.

He discussed the plan more than once at his meetings with the newspaper correspondents in the early days following his inauguration—was committed to it unmistakably.

Postmaster General Brown soon began to act as if he thought otherwise—as if he feared that the readjustment would spoil the old machinery for convention purposes, without furnishing a new one of compensatory reliability in the returning of southern statewide Republican majorities.

That this was the postmaster general's judgment can only be guessed, for naturally it was not proclaimed from the top of his department building—but it looked like a fair inference, considering

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

PETER'S MISTAKE

Worker Ant was hopping up and down, clapping her antennae together. The little insect was gleeful, but Peter couldn't see any reason to be so merry.

"You say we're at our journey's end, friend, but I must say this spot looks no different to me than any other spot. What makes it home to you?" Worker Ant snickered.

"Just wait and you shall see, boy. By the way, you haven't said a word about that hill across the road!"

Peter glanced across the road. Then he stared at his companion.

"You wouldn't fool me, Ant, would you?" demanded the boy. "What do you mean by asking me 'If I notice a hill? How could I? There isn't any! This country is as flat as a pancake!'"

"Your mistake, boy!" declared Worker Ant, promptly. "I have lived in these parts all of my life and I guess I know my landscape. There is a hill across the road and you'd see it if you'd keep your eyes on the ground where they should be. Whoever heard of searching the skies for an ant home!"

Peter knew better than to answer back when the usually mild Worker Ant spoke so sternly. Instead, he did as he was bid, and looked at the ground. Sure enough, there was a mound of brown earth.

"A mound where I had been looking for a mountain!" chuckled Peter. "So that's where you live with your cousin and your aunt, is it? And somewhere within that mound I'll find new quarters. Come on, Ant. I want to see what my new home is going to be like!" Peter dashed off, hot-foot, Worker Ant dawdling behind him.

Next: "Held as a Suspect."

the multiplicity of stories which represented him as trying to deal out patronage to the old-timers, while the newer crowd fought for appointments, and got not a few of them.

It would be exaggerating to say that Walter seemed to have been turned down cold, but it distinctly seemed as if considerably less than 100 per cent of his advice was being taken.

Finally came the boosting of Claudius Huston into the national committee chairmanship. That, at least, cannot possibly have taken place with Walter's approval—for Claudius, though from Tennessee, a border rather than an out-and-out solid southern state, was of the Hooverite southern element beyond the shadow of a question.

Well, the entire world knows what befell Claudius.

While it was betwining him, the world knows also what was going on inside the Republican party; a growing opposition to President Hoover's re-nomination was manifesting itself. Claudius' southern Republican activities (or whatever else the cause may have been) had clearly begun to threaten a G. O. P. split north of the Mason-Dixon line.

Claudius' southern scheme was a fizzle anyway.

In last year's election in Virginia and in the more recent primaries in North Carolina, Florida and Texas (every one of the southern states that President Hoover carried) the Hoover Democrats have had the tarlicked out of them.

Jealous politicians can slur Postmaster General Brown, Senator Fess and Joe Nutt as "the Ohio gang" all they please.

The G. O. P. cannot do without them.

"One bird in the hand" (meaning the solid north) is Walter Brown's motto. If the southern fowl chooses to step up to the chopping block and bare its neck to the executioner—all right—Walter will attend to it. He certainly is not going to cross the Potomac or, at the very farthest, venture beyond Memphis, chasing any poultry-men while leaving his henroost to be looted right in his own dooryard.

See To Child's Health

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

We parents are like other people. We let things go; we procrastinate. We wait, perhaps, for something to turn up, or we have the hope that by and by all things will work out for the best.

One thing we never can afford to neglect—our children's health. About a month from now they will be trudging off to school. They will have a long ten months ahead.

Going to school is a much more serious and important matter than we usually suppose it is. Every day the child spends there well and happy is a day invested in his future life's success; every day he misses is a very positive loss. The child who is absent one day loses practically two days in school progress. If from illness he is absent he upon return is greatly handicapped and at a time when he is least able to overcome this handicap.

We cannot absolutely guarantee our children against illness; but in summer we can do a great deal to assure their health in winter. Such remedial defects as bad tonsils and decayed teeth predispose the child toward general illness. The child with such defects more readily contracts colds and other ills. The child who is malnourished is also an easy victim of diseases.

We want our children to begin the new school year as strong and well as possible. Now is the time to have them checked upon by the doctor and the dentist, and to have all corrections of discovered defects made as soon as possible. Those who can well afford it will call upon their family specialists; others have available, in almost every neighborhood reliable expert assistance, such as the public health center or the public clinic. Now there hardly is a neighborhood without such services within the reach of practically every child.

The child who is to go to school this fall for the first time should, by all means, be given a once over physically. His first years is, no doubt, the most trying one. He may have physical defects which, if not corrected now, may retard his physical and mental growth throughout his whole school life.

If tonsils or adenoids must be removed they should be removed at once. Then the child will have ample time to regain strength before his school begins. Such operations call for time; so also does dental care. Have these corrections made now and you avoid breaking into the child's school time later.

The eyes of your older children may need attention, too. Nothing so handicaps the pupil's progress as poor vision. Some bright children with undiscovered eye defects are school failures.

Most school difficulties center about reading. The child of average or superior ability, who is very poor in history, geography or science, say, is generally poor because he cannot read well. Sometimes he can't read well because he can't see well. If your child fails last term, or received low grades, be sure to have his eyes checked upon before he starts to school. Better have a specialist look upon his hearing, too. Most schools make such examination, but bad cases sometimes get by them undiscovered.

If your child is underweight work out a program to increase his weight.

Hunt Good In People

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I just read Lonesome's letter and can't figure out how she can be such a good girl when all she can see is such a rotten world.

"I haven't the wonderful education she has. In fact, I haven't very much, but I read lots, love music, have pets, support my mother and sister, and have for four years, since my daddy died, I helped him lots before, so I was able to just keep right on."

"I meet people, mostly men, of all walks of life. Some have a pretty hard reputation, but as a rule they're a square shooting bunch. I've never been treated rudely, and I've been among them almost nine years."

"If a girl don't care to smoke, drink or pet she don't have to. I don't do those things. As this is supposed to be a free world, I don't see where anyone has to do things like that if they don't want to. If they do, I'm sure it's their business."

"It takes all kinds of people to make the world, but I haven't met many girls that smoke, though I never chum around with girls. You see, I was almost brought up among fellows. Girls and women have rather sassy tongues and say things that aren't true."

"Lonesome, you've most likely always been sheltered. That's why you've decided everyone except yourself is bad. The world is full of good people, but, of course, you sometimes have to hunt the good in them, and you can't judge people all the time from the outside. But I will say, if the girls were like the fellows, there would be less heartache. I suppose the girls will say, 'Gee, mind you, a girl taking the boys' side.' But, the fellows have always been wonderful friends to me, the girls never. No, I don't ever kiss or love around here. I'll sign myself just what I'm mostly called."

"JUST ONE GIRL IN A THOUSAND."

It's probably because you have been thrown with boys more than with girls that you think they make better friends, my dear. Maybe I have been particularly blessed with good friends of my own sex, but I have found few women who were not good friends, and even though some of them have had "sassy tongues" they always stood by and lent a helping hand in trouble.

It's an occasional human trait to say things that aren't true. It's not confined to either sex. Am glad you have found people, on the whole, pretty square, and am very glad to know you, and hope you will write again some time.

Every "unkissable" letter I receive will be the last, as the cushion has lasted long enough. But then I receive a letter that I think is just too good to "blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desert air," and I continue it. This just came in today's mail.

"Dear Miss Lee, I have noticed in the paper that George Jr. seems to be taking a mean beating from the girls since he wrote that there aren't any unkissable girls left. Well, George, I believe what you say is true, that there aren't any."

"Miss Lee, I have been going with girls since I was 13. I am now 18, and where is the girl that hasn't been kissed? Why when you take them out, if you do not kiss, and pet them they consider you are dearer than the Dead sea and give you no more dates."

"I will stick by George when he says they can all be kissed after going a month with them. I think it could be accomplished sooner. The girls seem to have learned to trade of their own, and know it seems to be."

"I hope this letter has put us on even terms with the opposite sex. Will you print it, as I know the girls would enjoy keeping up the fight? Unkissable girls, what a laugh!"

ANDY.
All right, Andy, says you.

Use Vigorous Massage

By GLADYS GLAD

Although the thin, angular woman looks most unattractive in a bathing suit, I think that the really fat woman presents a far more lamentable appearance in such a suit. And yet there is no necessity for any obese woman to have an ugly figure. An over-plump figure can have excellent lines, provided that steps are taken to distribute the excess flesh evenly over the body. The woman who has pretty lines to her silhouette, despite a noticeable excess of poundage, is the woman who has eliminated the rolls of fat around knees, thighs, ankles and upper arms, and the bunch of flesh at the back of the neck.

Wherever such lumps of fat exist, I suggest that vigorous massage be used to break up the fatty tissues. Whether the fat be around the ankles, knees, thighs, neck or arms, a thorough massage should be administered twice a day for a period of five or ten minutes. For the back of the neck, where most fleshy women grow a wad of fat, the "patter" will prove more effective than kneading and massaging with the hands.

Massage undeniably breaks up fatty tissues. Most reducing methods are based upon this principle. But a machine is not really necessary. The fat can be eradicated equally as well by a massage with hands or "patter."

The woman who "keeps her lines" although she gets more than her normal share of weight, isn't the one who lolls around all the time, either. She is, invariably, the active fat woman, who does more than take a "dip" when she goes to the beach.

Counterpart Breaks Track Record Twice

PARSHALL PILOTS HIS PERFECT PACER TO MILE IN 2:04 AT FAIR

Lowers Record Set in 1928; Urbana Reinsman Has Two Straight Heat Winners As Day Ends Good Racing Meeting

By PHIL FRAME

Counterpart, the speedy ten-year-old roan stallion of Dr. H. M. Parshall, noted Urbana reinsman and grand circuit driver, broke and re-broke the existing track record over the half-mile oval at the fairgrounds Friday afternoon, establishing a new mark of 2:04 flat in winning in straight heats the free-for-all pace worth $400, feature offering of the closing card of the three-day shortship circuit meeting held in conjunction with the 1930 Greene County Fair.

The roan wiggler, winner of the $25,000 American Pacing Derby at Kalamazoo, Mich., in 1929, eclipsed the former record in both the first and second heats and in the second mile fairly burned up the track, clipping two and one-quarter seconds off the old mark of 2:06 1-4, set up by Becky Beall in 1928.

In his record-breaking mile, Counterpart reeled off the first quarter in 31 3/4, the half in 1:02 3/4, the three-quarters in 1:33 3/4, and the full mile in 2:04. The gelding scooted the final quarter in a bang, running the last 1/4 in 30 3/4 to set the local record at a notch where it will in all probability stand for years to come and possibly for ever and a day.

The free-for-all fixture, third event on the program, was limited to a field of only four starters of which only one, Mose Direct, bay gelding, owned and driven by William Pavey, Sabina, furnished Dr. Parshall's brilliant stallion with stiff competition. The other two entries, both nominated by Pearl Sellers, Dayton, were distanced the second heat.

Dr. Parshall brought his pacer to the post flat and ready for the first heat and Counterpart turned the mile in 2:05 1/4, breaking the existing record by three-quarters of a second. The second heat was a hummer for Pavey drove Mose Direct to the front and set a dizzy pace for a half mile. Thoroughly warmed up, however, Counterpart breezed ahead easily at the three-quarter post and showed his heels to Mose Direct on the home stretch to again lower the record to 2:04 with Bon Frisco and Prince L. straggling under the wire in wheel chairs.

The third and final heat was uninteresting as Dr. Parshall had accomplished what he had set out to do—smash the record to smithereens. Counterpart romped home again ahead of Mose Direct, his only competitor, in the comparatively slow time of 2:09 1/4.

NOTES ON COUNTY FAIR RACES

While no county fair race meeting of this or any other era is, or can be, classed by all as perfect, it must be remarked that the three-day program which came to a close at the fairgrounds Friday was as well conducted as is humanly possible and will certainly rank among the near-perfect, in the final summing up, as any here in former years. Members of the speed department deserve great credit for the manner in which arrangements were carried through to the very end, their only reward being one of satisfaction that the program went through to a conclusion with few hitches and many expressions of commendation were voiced on all sides.

Governor Myers Y. Cooper visited the fair Friday afternoon, coming here from Lebanon, where he had a speaking engagement. The chief executive arrived about 4 o'clock, just in time to witness the third heat of the free-for-all pace, but too late to see the track record broken. Introduced to the crowd by H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, Governor Cooper gave a brief talk from the judge's stand, reciting the advantages of fairs in general from the standpoint of one who himself was long identified with these exhibitions in the capacity of president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association for eleven years.

Another distinguished fair visitor Friday was Judge J. L. Holderman, president of the Southwestern Ohio Shortship Fair Circuit, which includes the Greene County Fair. He is also president of the Ohio Fair Manager's Association and secretary of the Montgomery County Fair board.

The entire purse of $600 in the 2:18 trotting stake was ordered held up by the three judges before the event was raced because General Walker, an entry of Dr. H. M. Parshall, Urbana, was thought ineligible to compete in this class. From the evidence on hand, which consisted of a Wallace year book of 1929, the records indicated that gross winnings of this horse last year amounted to $2,653.50, whereas the 2:18 classification is limited to horses that have not won more than $2,000. Dr. Parshall told the judges these figures were incorrect. Because he did not have his registration card with him the three judges unanimously voted to declare the horse ineligible. It was decided, however, to permit the gelding to race under protest when the Urbana reinsman filed a written affidavit of protest. The upshot of the controversy was that General Walker raced and won the event in straight heats.

Another fine crowd was in the stands Friday, attracted, no doubt, by the possibility the track record would be lowered. This hope was justified when Counterpart did the trick twice. The roan wiggler raced here last year as a nine-year-old but failed to break the record due to a slow track and was even beaten in the free-for-all event by Prue Gratton, the horse which won the American Pacing Derby in 1927. Counterpart won this classic in 1929.

Earl Myers, Xenia, entered Binville, black mare by Binville, in the green trot and made a good showing in the second heat, leading the race. The local entry came in seventh in the first heat and sixth in the third mile.

The Bath Twp. band occupied the bandstand Friday and supplied music between each heat of the racing.

GOVERNOR GUEST AT FAIR HERE FRIDAY

Governor Myers Y. Cooper, who paid a visit to the Greene County Fair late Friday afternoon, delivered a brief talk from the judge's stand on the subject of fairs in general, and upon leaving the fairgrounds went to the O. S. and S. O. Home, where he spent about three hours, inspecting the cottages and grounds and the new hospital.

The chief executive and Mr. Thornburg, St. Clairsville, O., attorney, who accompanied the governor to Xenia, were guests of Supt. and Mrs. Harold L. Hays at dinner at the institution and early in the evening motored back to Columbus.

Following his inspection trip over the grounds Governor Cooper expressed himself as being well pleased with the way affairs of the institution are being managed.

MAKING BUSINESS

A gain in sales for the first five months of 1930 by department stores is credited to increased use of newspaper advertising in a recent issue of Editor and Publisher, newspaper weekly magazine. The statement reveals that sixty-seven stores in the New York Federal Reserve District report an average gain of 2 per cent and twelve stores in New York City alone report a gain of 4 per cent. The increase is credited in direct ratio to the added volume of advertising, which represented a gain from department stores alone of more than half a million lines of advertising in New York City during the same period. The statement is considered an interesting commentary on the relation of newspaper advertising to retail sales and the possibilities of advertising to overcome business depression.

GRAHAM PAINTS AND WILMINGTON TEAM PLAY TIE CONTEST

Graham Paints, of the Xenia National League, and the Gallups, leading softball team of Wilmington, battled eight innings to a 5 to 5 tie in an exciting exhibition tilt at Cox Field Friday night. The game did not start until rather late and was called at the end of the eighth round because of darkness. Wilmington jumped into the lead by scoring once in the first stanza and three times in the second, but the Paints tallied a marker in the third and added two more in the fifth. The visitors scored once more in the fifth. Behind two runs, Graham managed to even matters in the seventh by virtue of home runs by Kersey and Milburn. The eighth round was scoreless.

Lloyd Downey pitched for Graham and after a shaky start settled down and pitched great ball, holding the Quakers to nine hits, whereas Graham made ten bingles.

A return game between the two teams will be played at Wilmington next Tuesday night.

MAY INVOKE CURFEW ON MIDGET COURSE

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Residents of a fashionable apartment hotel here today had on file a motion to invoke the curfew law for a midget golf course adjoining the building. Judge John H. Lyle gave the owner of the course until Monday to appear with witnesses to support his assertion that he never retained tenants alleged that men and women, often in evening clothes, played until 3 or 4 a. m., sometimes becoming so noisy that sleep was impossible.

TEACHER RESIGNS FROM FACULTY HERE

Resignation of Robert Haws, instructor in industrial arts at Xenia Central High School for the last four years, was submitted to Louis Hammett, city school superintendent, Saturday, Mr. Haws, whose home is in Crede, W. Va., has been elected to teach industrial arts in a junior high school at Hamilton, O., during the 1930-31 school year. His successor at Central High is expected to be selected by the city school board at its next meeting the latter part of August.

PLAYING WITH GUN PROVES DANGEROUS

Agnew White, 28, colored, 616 E. Second St., and Ethel Commodore, 29, colored, 610 E. Second St., were playing with a loaded revolver at the former's home Friday night when the gun was discharged accidentally.

That was the explanation White gave police for a seared wound across his forehead. The woman fled after the accident.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Selling orders for the principal stocks poured into the market from all quarters in the week-end session and prices settled down to a lower level, with new losses extending from 1 to 3 points. Heavy selling of the margin holdings of small speculators swelled the list and paved the way for a further attack by the bears in the first hour, but moderate rallies were in evidence at the end of that period.

For the first time in more than a month the tickers fell behind, and prices were relayed over the bond tickers. United States Steel at the low point of the first hour showed a loss of 2 1/2 points at 158 1/2, while New York Central was down 3 points at 157, Vanadium down 4 at 81 1/4, Warner Brothers down 2 1/4 at 25 1/4, and National Dairy Products down 1 1/4 at 50.

The week-end business and industrial reviews offered little of encouragement in the way of business recovery. Losses in the drought areas were quite severe and the falling off in bank clearing indicated a decrease in the volume of domestic business. Professionals were on the market's neck, in another effort to push prices lower and short covering in this period was comparatively small.

READ THIS FIRST:

Kitty Wilmot, private secretary to Ellery Goss, Wall Street king, is pursued by Atlee Wainwright, chief clerk, who hates Gordon Platt, Goss' confidential man, to whom Kitty is strongly attracted. Under Platt's orders she is to assist in running down a "leak" in the office; during his absence from the city, she is entertained by Atlee, who makes such violent love to Kitty that she flees in terror to Sally Ayers, head bookkeeper for Goss. Baby Ayers, Sally's small sister, calls her a liar for what she says of Atlee and ends in hysterics. Kitty agrees to give Atlee a chance to explain. She goes to a party given by Hilda, blind phone operator for Goss, meets Boss Kelliher, overhears a cryptic conversation which she thinks is about her, is asked identical questions by three men and finally goes home alone in spite of Kelliher's determination to escort her. Waiting for her on the steps of her home is an ill-dressed individual with a note, about to be arrested for loitering by a policeman.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 14

"Must see you before you go to office. Meet me for breakfast, Astor House, 7:45 without fail. Tell me one I am in town. Don't fail me. Burn this!" Boston Post Road.

Kitty read the note three times, more puzzled with each reading. She did not know the handwriting. Then the queer signature percolated! The note was from Gordon Platt, of course! He signed "Boston Post Road," thinking she would know it meant her escort and driver on the trip up the highway. The special messenger's instructions to put the note in her hands but here the injunction to tell no one, the need to see her before she went to the office, all spelled "important!" to Kitty.

But it brought a problem squarely before her; a puzzle she had put off facing ever since Gordon Platt had left on his trip. She was committed by inference, by several trips and suppers, by acquiescence, if not in so many words, to help Platt find the leak in Goss' office.

To be of assistance she must report to Platt everything in and about the office which might point to a conspiracy, to odd actions, to peculiar circumstances. Of evidence of conspiracy she had none. But of odd actions and peculiar circumstances there were several. They had nothing to do with the leak, of course. But Gordon—she called him by name mentally, a little shyly—he wanted to know everything! Rather hesitatingly she listed the odd circumstances in her mind. Atlee hated Platt.

Edith, "queen of the files" who never smiled, watched Atlee unceasingly.

Hilda had not been willing to take "no" for an answer to her party; her insistence seemed unnecessarily strong to Kitty.

The peculiar conversation she had overheard at the party and Kelliher's demand that he take her home.

The three men who asked her to make questions at the party. Atlee making violent love to her. The odd fact that Atlee's friend of the golden apartment was Kelliher.

Baby Ayers' hysterics; first at her complaint of Atlee; second when she had heard the word "marriage" in connection with Atlee.

Baby was Sally's sister; and Sally was head bookkeeper for Goss.

None of these tangibles and intangibles made any sense! They were apparently unrelated, or at least, but tenuously connected. How could any of them be connected with the leak? Unless Atlee's hatred of Gordon Platt—she wished she knew why!

But to tell of it to Platt seemed a sacrilege on friendship. Kitty did not disguise from herself that although strongly attracted to Platt, she also liked Atlee amazingly.

How much should she tell Gordon Platt at breakfast? What had Edith to do with it? Why did she watch Atlee? Was that, too, imagination? Could she have been mistaken in thinking that cryptic overheard conversation had been about her? Was she just conceited in thinking the unknown speaker meant her eyes and her dimple?

Other girls had dimples and honest eyes—but Kitty had seen no other dimple at Hilda's party!

She tossed over her problems into the very small hours, then slept with troubled dreams. She jumped out of bed very early and was in the Astor lobby promptly at 7:45, her problem still undecided, her heart worried, intending to leave decision to the developments of the breakfast.

Platt took her hand warmly as she came forward. "It's so good to see you again! I do hope my melodramatics didn't disturb your sleep!" he smiled. "I arrived last night at ten, couldn't get you on the 'phone and was afraid to leave a note for you, so I used little Gilly to put it in your hands. But I hadn't any idea it would be at one-thirty in the morning!"

His statement was not a question, but Kitty felt a sudden need to tell him. "I was at a little party, Hilda, in the office, you know."

He nodded. He ordered a breakfast such as Kitty had rarely eaten; two kinds of fruit, supreme of sausage au Ravalliere, crumpets and marmalade, a tiny black coffee to begin and French cafe au lait with the meal. But he ate as if he did not know what was before him.

When the waiter had finished serving and they had a moment's privacy, he asked her "How well do you know Hattie Bridges?"

Kitty felt a sense of vast relief. "Why, I don't know her at all, except that I helped her get a job with Mr. Goss, and she's very grateful to me. She seemed a hard working little woman and she told me she needed the money, badly."

"All right. Please get to know her. Take her out. Take her swimming. Take her to the theater. Get in her home. I want to know who she knows, who are her friends."

"Right, General!" smiled Kitty. "You sound good to me!" Gordon Platt smiled for the first time. "Only I'd like to be—something else beside general!"

"What?" asked Kitty daringly. He looked wonderful, she thought; how could Sally say he was ever not handsome? His eyes said what his lips had never spoken. A sudden thought made her flush. Atlee's unexpected kiss at the natorium had disgusted her; his kiss in the taxi had thrilled, but worried her; but a kiss from Gordon—she turned her thoughts to what he was saying.

"—knows any stock brokers?" "I didn't quite get that," Kitty bit her lips at her inattentive musing. She was not there for love making or flirtation, but for business.

"I asked whether you knew any one in the organization who had a particular friend who is a stock broker?"

Kitty's thoughts raced like lightning. Patty Hemming was a stock broker! He was a friend of Atlee's, and he was obviously most smitten with Sally Ayers. But Sally Ayers was as honest as Atlee, and Atlee, for all his devastating actions in Kelliher's golden bower, was as honest as Sally. To connect either of them with the leak was silly!

"I'm trying to," she quelled his impatience at her slowness in answering. "No, I don't think I do."

Kitty gasped, mentally. She had spoken too quickly—and now she had lied to him!

Gordon Platt looked her straight in the face. "What lovely eyes!" she thought, inconsequently.

The Theater

Charlie Chaplin will be revealed in the guise of composer when his new picture, "City Lights," is released. The comedian, who is the last, irreconcilable foe of talking pictures left in Hollywood, has written the lyrics and music for the theme song of his production. It is to be called "Wonderful, Beautiful Eyes" and will be introduced in the synchronized version by means of a phonograph.

There'll be no dialogue in the picture. Charlie's tramp character comes into a bar-parlor and hears the song played on a phonograph. After this the melody is woven throughout the score. Charlie has always been particular about the music for his films and has written several other numbers that will be used in the picture.

Studio associates believe the long-awaited comedy will be ready in a month now, and would have been released sooner if the hot weather had not delayed work.

This department regrets that it failed to mention the birthday of the talking pictures Wednesday. The first sound film, Vitaphone, was seen and heard August 6, 1926 at the Warner Theater in New York City. Giovanni Martinelli, Anna Case, Efron Zimbalist, Harold Bauer, Roy Smek and others were the performers. A short time later a similar program was offered at Sid Grauman's Egyptian Theater in Hollywood. At that time twenty silent pictures were showing in Los Angeles. Now there is only one.

In spite of the general popular acceptance of the talkies, Chaplin has steadfastly maintained his opposition to this form of expression. "City Lights" has been in process of making almost ever since the talkies became generally accepted. Incidentally an old name of Charlie's was married Friday in New York. She is May Collins, actress, who was engaged to Chaplin in 1921 but who married Edmund E. Thomas, real estate broker. Miss Collins has been playing in "Ladies All" in New York.

The tremendous success of Norma Shearer in "The Divorcee" which was "Ex-Wife" as a novel, has led Metro-Goldwyn Mayer to buy another story by Ursula Par-

FLYING RADIO STAR

Andy Sannella, Orchestra Leader, Commutes By
Plane For Broadcasts

Andy Sannella

By YANNER ALEXANDER
NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Andy Sannella is known to most of his fans as orchestra leader, composer, and soloist on both saxophone and steel guitar in a number of nationally broadcast chain programs.

A glimpse into his personality, the flashing, dark, extremely Latin type, wouldn't be at all complete if it didn't take into account the real versatility shown in his private, non-professional life. When Andy's father came here just before his son was born, thirty years ago, he made sure that a true American, if there ever was one, was born on American soil.

Andy combines the music and fire of the Neapolitan with an ability to disregard the non-essential, to work hard and to enjoy practical aviation and short wave radio experimentation, for example, that is nothing but pure United States of good old Edison model.

Two years ago he married Miss Aileen MacConnell of Monoquet, Ind., and composed "Aileen" in celebration. Today he has a charming summer home at Monoquet with a summer house built by himself, where he has installed piano and pipe organ for use during composition. Then he commutes in his own airplane to New York for necessary "mike" work during the warm months.

His own fondness for aviation grew to such a degree that he desired to let his fellow musicians know about it. With the same flair for organizing that has produced a number of bands and orchestras during his working life, he organized the Albatross club with such artists as Paul Whiteman, Gene Austin and Franklin Baur. He keeps his own plane ready for duty at all times, even when he is at his apartment here during the winter.

Andy's training for what has turned out to be his career began when he was seven, in Brooklyn, where he was born, and where his mother still lives and listens in regularly. Oddly enough, though, he was given instruction in the violin. Church and school orchestra absorbed some of his abundant energy until the war came, in 1917, and he enlisted in the army. He was under age, of course, and his mother pulled strings to secure his discharge on this count. Undiscovered immediately joined the navy, and his mother finally resigned herself to the inevitability of his seeing some sort of service.

Three years, most of the time abroad submarines, gave Andy enough raw, rough human experience and knowledge of human nature, and when his enlistment expired in Panama City, Panama, he elected to stay there and accept a berth as violinist on a hotel orchestra.

A saxophone seen by him in a shop window proved strangely attractive, and he paid $25 for it. A week later his employer offered him $50 to throw it away after hearing it for the first time. His interest was so thoroughly aroused that he stuck, teaching himself by practice on lonely beaches, that when he played at the next fiesta his success was huge. In this connection, he observed, he taught himself to play everything but his first love, the violin.

In 1922 the youngster came to New York, was "discovered" by Paul Whiteman, learned from the giant maestro of jazz and finally graduated into the phonograph recording and radio fields when his reputation spread from fellow musicians to the public. That career has certainly been fruitful to a degree, but one activity has been forgotten. Andy's 19-year-old brother is one of thousands learning the saxophone by the "Sannella Method." What a man!

"Liberation Of The Highways"

Fred M. Ervin

Candidate For

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Xenia, Ohio

Voters Of Greene County:

I am addressing this open letter to you to state my reasons for asking your support at the polls next Tuesday.

QUALIFICATIONS—

I am a graduate of Muskingum College with the A. B. degree. I am acquainted with school problems, having taught in Springfield High School. I am cognizant of present day farm, labor and business needs, having been closely connected with the grain business in this county for ten years.

PLATFORM—

I am opposed to Public Utility regulation of motor vehicles. The tax payers (mostly farmers) have built the superior highways of this state. The State then has confiscated these same roads and resold them to a few privileged operators (the certificated haulers) who ONLY are permitted to use them for hire. The results are a monopoly which will cost the public increased trucking rates.

I favor gas tax only on motor vehicles, as the only equitable and fair means of just taxation for road expenditures.

I favor legislation designed for the good of the majority as opposed to that which is framed only for the selfish, private interests.

I am opposed to lobbying because it gives an immense advantage to these same selfish interests who are the highly organized minority working against the good of the majority.

PLEDGES—

In order to maintain an effective contact with the electors I will devote Saturdays during sessions to any who might wish to consult about pending or possible legislation.

I pledge myself to vote for the good of the majority, as opposed to the organized minority of selfish interests, on every proposed piece of legislation.

Vote for LEGISLATION OF THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE, AND BY A REPRESENTATIVE KEENLY ALIVE TO THE PEOPLE'S NEEDS by marking an X opposite my name.

Thank You,

Fred M. Ervin
